Trade Commission Liberalizes 1933 Securities Act

PROVES BIG AID TO MINE PROMOTIONS

Action Significant Victory For Congressmen in Months Long Fight

PROVISIONS CHANGED

Lift Regulations Detrimental of Hundreds of Projects Over Nation

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—The liberalization of the 1933 securities act to boom gold silver prospecting in the west, as approved today by the federal trade commission.

The action was a significant victory for more than 100 mining state congressmen who fought months to have restrictions lifted on mining promotion projects could go ahead.

The regulations approved marked the first time since last November that the commission had lifted restrictions of the "truth-in-securities" act.

The changes free from penal provisions of the act new development companies floating $100,000 or less securities annually. They would be permitted to sell stock at any value desired and to use up to 25 per cent of the proceeds for promotion purposes.

The revisions were hailed by mining state representatives as helping to boom prospecting project hatching throughout the west.

"In my opinion," said Rep. James Scrugham, D., Nev., one of the leaders in the congressional drive, "the changes will greatly stimulate the mining industry and be a great incentive to gold and silver prospecting."

The regulations were announced by Scrugham, who, with other mining state representatives, obtained consideration by trade commission of the revisions. The congressional group had conferred frequently with trade commissioner Mes M. Landis.

Present regulations, the mining "loc" charged have deterred new mining projects, inasmuch as they require from penal provisions only companies floating $100,000 or less securities which sell stock at a 90 per value and put 90 per cent of the proceeds "into the diggers."

STOCK MARKET BILL TO COME UP MONDAY

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—The house will begin consideration of the stock exchange control bill Monday under a wide rule permitting amendments. The rule committee decided today. The rule permits seven hours of debate. It was requested by Chairman Sam B. Rayburn, of the house interstate commerce committee which drafted the measure.

Under the program, it was expected that final action on the bill will be reached by the house next week. All next week will be devoted to consideration of the measure.

Rayburn's decision to send the bill to the house with no restrictions on amendments indicated he expected the measure would survive the committee's amendments and be passed in its present form.

EVANGELIST'S SON COMPLETES DEFENSE

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(UP)—Bolstered by the testimony of friends, counsel for Paul T. Sunday, youngest son of Evangelist Billy Sunday, were to conclude their arguments today for his acquittal on charges of being intoxicated in an automobile.

The trial was being heard by a municipal court jury.

Friends of the 28-year-old defendant denied he was intoxicated when he left a party on the night of April 16, to be arrested a short time later by two radio patrolmen, who alleged he resisted arrest. The friends said Sunday drank only a highball and two cocktails, and was sober when he left the party.

ADMIRAL ARRIVES AT CANAL

COLON, C. Z., April 27.—(UP)—Mystery attaching to the secret maneuver in which the United States battle fleet was speeded through the Panama canal was deepened today with official news that Admiral W. H. Standley, chief of the bureau of naval operations, would arrive today on the battleship Virginia.

Standley will proceed through the canal on the Virginia and return to Colon by train to remain here until just before the fleet leaves May 5. His visit was said to be unprecedented.

There was a rumor throughout the fleet today that the arrival at New York would be speeded up by several days, and that the fleet would arrive there probably May 27, instead of May 31.

DENY REPORTS LINDY RANSOM MONEY PASSED

Federal Agents Say Activity in Vermont Due to Extortion Plot

BOSTON, April 27.—(UP)—Recent activities of department of justice agents in the Rutland, Vt., area have no connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping case, Chief Investigator Clarence D. McKean said today.

Instead, it was indicated, their operations concerned a threat to kidnap a prominent and wealthy Vermont man whose name was withheld.

It was understood that the agents set a trap for the plotters near the Pine Hill golf course at Rutland, but that no one appeared to collect ransom money.

"Was it an extortion plot?" McKean, one of the department's ace investigators, was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

Department rules, he said, would not permit him to divulge details. The department of justice office here categorically denied published reports that the Lindbergh ransom money had been passed in Vermont within the past six months.

"We have absolutely no information to support such reports," an official told the United Press.

It was learned the activities of the federal agents at Rutland reached a climax last Friday when they planted two packages of fake money on the Pine Hills links, apparently in accordance with instructions contained in a blackmail letter.

Two 14-year-old caddies, Ira Fitzpatrick and Raymond Webster, happened along, saw the bundles, and bent over to examine them. Suddenly they espied the federal agents, who had been hiding close by, and they ran.

One agent drew a gun and fired a warning shot, halting the youths, who were questioned at length. Approximately 100 persons were questioned during the investigation. But no arrests were made.

They all began scuffling outside," he purportedly told Anderson. "Then I heard something strike the door pretty hard."

The examination of Jewett's body showed that the fracture was caused by a heavy blow. Henderson is held as a material witness pending further investigation.

CAMPUS DEATH AT PALO ALTO BEING PROBED

Mystery Rivaling Case Of David Lamson Stirring Stanford "Farm"

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 27.—(UP)—A campus mystery which rivaled the David Lamson case developed today through the death of Peter Jewett, 18-year-old Stanford University freshman, whose skull was fractured during a night of student festivities.

Not since the body of Mrs. Lamson was found in the bathroom of her campus home has Stanford been as stirred as it is over the disclosures revealed by Santa Clara county officials investigating the young Portland, Ore., freshman's death.

College students, a bartender, an attractive blonde and night club patrons were drawn into the case. Two co-eds whose names were withheld figured in the story.

Jewett was found dead in the automobile in which he and William Dalton Henderson, San Francisco freshman, had gone to sleep after escorting two co-eds to a San Francisco dance, returning them to a college dormitory, and visiting "The Klondike," night club near Redwood City. They parked near the campus. In the morning Henderson was unable to rouse his companion.

An autopsy showed that Jewett had died from a fractured skull and hemorrhages. Henderson recalled that their machine had struck a telephone pole on their way back from the roadhouse. But the county officials, unsatisfied with this explanation, pursued their inquiry further.

Sheriff William Emig, central figure in the Lamson case in which David Lamson was convicted on a murder charge, and Harold Anderson, a San Mateo deputy district attorney, learned of several fights between students and other patrons of "The Klondike."

Anderson said three students had fought among themselves but that he was unable to connect them with another fight in which Henderson and Jewett apparently were involved. The students to be questioned further are Henry Everson, La Canada, Cal., William Brownell, San Francisco, and Tom Greenough, Couer D'Alene, Idaho.

Jack Goldwaite, bartender at the club, was quoted by Anderson as admitting he had struck Henderson but as denying he had touched Jewett.

According to Goldwaite, Henderson and a patron named Frank Ulrich, not a student, became involved in an argument over an attractive blonde girl. The argument developed into a free-for-all and the bartender threw the group out.

"They all began scuffling outside," he purportedly told Anderson. "Then I heard something strike the door pretty hard."

The examination of Jewett's body showed that the fracture was caused by a heavy blow. Henderson is held as a material witness pending further investigation.

STOLEN CAR TRACKED TO RESERVATION

Believe Four Members Of Gang Hiding In Resort In Wisconsin

LAC DE FLAMBEAU, Wis., April 27.—(UP)—A Dillinger gangster, believed to be George (Baby Face) Nelson, identified at the machine gunner who Monday killed a government agent a few miles from here, eluded pursuers today after forcing an Indian to conceal him.

The desperado, armed with three guns, appeared at noon Monday afternoon at the home of Ole Catfish, Chippewa Indian, only a few hours after the Dillinger gang shot its way through an ambush laid by federal agents at Little Bohemia Lodge, on Spider lake.

For three days the gangster held Catfish and his family prisoners in their own home, refusing to allow anyone to go outside even to replenish the dwindling food supply.

He fled last night, taking Catfish with him, in a sedan stolen from Adolph Goetze.

Federal agents traced the car to a filling station on a highway between Fifield and Minocqua, where the gangster threw his Indian companion from the car and continued west.

Sheriffs of two counties threw blockades across all highways across the region as soon as Catfish reported his story. Five carloads of department of justice agents went to the densely wooded region of Sauwa lake, in which they believed the desperado was trapped.

The agents suspected at least four members of the Dillinger gang, including possibly John Dillinger, the notorious leader, lurked in a previously arranged hideout.

Federal agents bore machine guns and pistols. County authorities were expected to support their hunt with blockades and roads. Although authorities offered the use of possemen, the agents hesitated to use civilian help, fearing that numerous casualties might result.

At least three of the Dillinger gang of six or seven were believed to have escaped to Minnesota. Two innocent men, including W. Carter Baum, federal agent from Washington, died as the result of the premature springing of the Little Bohemia Lodge trap.

Four other men were wounded, and the possibility was seen with the finding of a bloodstained car near St. Paul that one of the gangsters had been hit.

AMERICAN AIRLINES UNOPPOSED ON BIDS

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—American Airlines, Inc., was unopposed in bidding for two major routes of the four temporary airmail lines opened at noon today by the postoffice department.

American Airlines was the only bidder on a route from Newark to Chicago and a route from Fort Worth to Los Angeles. Their bid on both routes was for 39 1/2 cents per airline mile. On the Newark-Chicago route the postoffice specified a 44 cent maximum, and on the Fort Worth-Los Angeles route a 45-cent maximum.

The detail of the routes included: Fort Worth, Abilene, Big Springs, El Paso, Douglas, Tucson, Phoenix, to Los Angeles—1325 miles.

FRUSTRATES PLOT TO KIDNAP SOLO

BELLELEVILLE, Ill., April 27.—(UP)—Sheriff Jerome Munie today credited Herman Dannehold, 32, former convict, with frustration of a kidnapping plot aimed against William N. Blatz, former Illinois congressman.

Dannehold, a member of a gang of three men, went to Marshal Philip Lippert of Millstadt and revealed the plans of his confederates at the last moment. His confession resulted in their capture.

The plotters were identified as Joseph La Compie, 22, Dupu, Ill., and James Lambert, 21, East St. Louis. Munie said La Compie had confessed. Both men are ex-convicts.

Dannehold described the plot as an attempt to capture Blatz inside of the First National bank of Millstadt, of which the former congressman was president. The kidnappers expected to loot the bank and spirit Blatz away to be held for ransom. Dannehold was alleged to have revealed.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON AND MISS BURROUGHS DECLARED NOT GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—Bishop James Cannon jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and Miss Ida L. Burroughs, his ex-secretary, were acquitted by a jury in district supreme court today on charges of conspiring to violate the corrupt practices act.

The 11 men and one pretty housewife, who has listened to evidence for nearly three weeks, took three hours and 25 minutes to reach their verdict.

The 69-year-old churchman, jubilant over his vindication, planned to go immediately to Jackson, Miss., where the quadrennial conference of his church is in progress.

The jury took only two ballots. The first was 9 to 3 for acquittal. The foreman was William J. Newman, an accountant.

Bishop Cannon, who read a religious magazine at the witness table during the deliberations, smiled broadly when the foreman of the jury announced the "not guilty" verdict on both counts.

Miss Burroughs, standing beside the bishop, also smiled. The jurors came to a quicker decision than even the defense attorney had hoped.

The bishop said he would leave tonight for the Methodist Episcopal conference at Jackson. He and Miss Burroughs were surrounded by associates in the Methodist church and in the Anti-Saloon League who congratulated them on the victory.

Cannon refused to make any statement. Miss Burroughs also refused to comment.

A middle-aged woman ran up to Cannon and announced she had said she would hug him when he was acquitted.

"Hug away," Cannon said. "We still love you," the woman continued, "and we know you are not a criminal."

She later identified herself as Miss Ada Piercy of Parkersburg, W. V. She said she had first become acquainted with the bishop when he spoke at Parkersburg.

"It's a victory for protestantism," she said.

RECALL POLICE FROM HUNT FOR KIDNAPED GIRL

Peace Officers Open Way For Bandits to Return Child to Home

TUCSON, Ariz., April 27.—(UP)—Peace officers opened the way for kidnapers of June Robles, 6, to contact her anguished parents today by dismissing 1500 possemen who have blocked the town since the girl was abducted by a "dark man" two days ago.

The decision to permit the kidnapers to arrange for collection of $10,000 ransom demands and for surrender of the girl was reached after a nightlong conference between county, city and federal authorities.

The officers believed the child's safety depended on dispersing the hundreds of deputies, former service men and cowboys who volunteered at the outset to hunt out the kidnapers' hideaway by searching every house in Tucson and outskirts.

Soon after the manhunt terminated, Carlos Robles, Pima county deputy attorney and uncle of June, made the following statement:

"The main object in the case, I believe, is to have the girl returned safely to her family. For that reason I have requested in behalf of the family that officers withdraw from the case in order to permit the family to negotiate with the kidnapers, hoping that through such negotiations we may have the girl returned to her home safely. The officers have been kind enough to accept and withdraw."

Another factor hastening efforts to contact the kidnapers was the serious condition of Mrs. Fernandez Robles, mother of the girl. She has been unable to sleep since the abduction and prays constantly for the safe return of her daughter.

The special possemen, armed with rifles, shotguns and sidearms, thus far had blocked supposed efforts of the kidnapers to contact the family.

MACHADO SOUGHT BY AMERICAN OFFICERS

NEW YORK, April 27.—(UP)—Former President of Cuba Gerardo Machado, fleeing arrest and trial on charges of murder and assassination, evaded the police of five states today.

Officers in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut broadcast warnings to be on lookout for Machado. All border points leading to Canada were guarded.

Machado fled from his New York residence Wednesday a few hours before United States Marshal Raymond J. Mulligan went there to serve a warrant requested by Cuban authorities.

Counsel to fight Machado's extradition has been retained by friends, it was reported.

DISCUSSION SOUGHT ON JAPAN CLAIM

Bilateral Discussions Between U. S. and Japan in 1935 Believed Closed

NANKING, China, April 27.—(UP)—The Chinese nationalist government plans to seek an immediate parley of the signatories of the nine-power treaty to discuss Japan's "hands off China" policy.

It was understood the foreign office would seek to convince the powers guaranteeing China's political and territorial integrity that Japan's thesis was minimal to their interests as well as to China's.

The Chinese leaders are represented as hopeful that the world reaction to the Japanese pronouncement has created a relatively favorable opportunity for settlement of the long standing Sino-Japanese issues.

FURTHER DEFIANCE

PEKING, China, April 27.—(UP)—Further defiance of Japanese interference in Chinese affairs was voiced today by the government.

It was announced Dr. Wellington Koo had been instructed to attend the forthcoming session of the technical collaboration commission of the League of Nations for the purpose of enabling China to take the fullest advantage of the league's technical cooperation, regardless of Japan's objections.

DISCUSSIONS OFF

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—Whatever else Japan's unofficial "hands off China" announcement has done, it appeared today to have closed definitely the door to bilateral discussions of Pacific problems between Japan and the United States as a prelude to the 1935 naval conference.

Unofficial opinion by United Press revealed an almost unanimous belief that such discussions now would be impossible.

There never was much enthusiasm.

LYDELL PECK TO BE BOARD CANDIDATE

MERCED, Cal., April 27.—(UP)—Lyndell Peck, Oakland attorney and divorced husband of Janet Gaynor, film actress, today announced his candidacy for the board of equalization post held by Fred E. Stewart of Oakland.

Peck is a native of Merced and the son of James F. Peck of Oakland, prominent Merced landowner and Oakland attorney. The younger Peck's announcement of his candidacy in the primary election said, in part:

"The state tax administration, I believe, should dispel the circus atmosphere and dismiss all clowns and thimble riggers. This should be done by pruning all expenses. Consolidating overlapping municipalities and bureaus; dispensing with needless organizations where present or potential graft may find cover."

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM STATE PRISON

bringing in the fugitives. Several persons saw the four men together in the policemen's small coupe. But no further word ever came from Le Corne and Dewey.

The fugitives apparently turned the tables on their captors and forced the policemen to accompany them on a dash northward toward the mountain ranges, the Lake Tahoe country, and Reno. A state highway patrolman saw the couple on the highway near San Rafael but was not aware at the time of the prison break. Another officer passed the machine on the road to Napa and saw the two convicts and Dewey in the car. Le Corne was not in sight.

On the basis of his report, authorities made an exhaustive search along the roadside for the policemen. No trace of Le Corne was found, and it was believed he had been held on the floorboards, out of sight, or had been bound and thrown into the rumble seat compartment.

Until their escape, Stewart and Wyeth were considered "model prisoners." They were placed on a gang doing surveying outside the prison walls and were returning from a trip into the woods near the prison when they attacked Guard Charles L. Green. After beating Green unconscious, they took his gun and some of his clothing and fled, apparently on foot. Green revived within half an hour and gave the alarm.

Police broadcasts warned that the fugitives are armed and that Stewart faced a "possible death sentence because of his attack on the guard. Under a new state law, convicts serving life terms are liable to death penalties in assaults. Five men who participated in a futile break several weeks ago now await trial under the law.

CHINA SEEKING DISCUSSION ON JAPAN CLAIMS

ism in official circles here for the proposals put forward by the Japanese government in an unofficial manner from time to time during the past six months for a "full and frank discussion of far eastern problems" between the United States and Japan prior to the naval conference.

Officials here believed that all nations having interests in the Far East should be counted in on such discussions.

This was revealed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in the recent exchange of "good will" messages between Hull and the Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota. Hull said all powers having interests in Asia should be included in any discussion of Pacific problems.

There had happened, however, some responsible opinion, outside of official circles, that bilateral discussions with Japan prior to the conference might have achieved some constructive results.

This seems practically wiped out by the pronouncement of the Japanese foreign office spokesman on April 17 of the now famous "clarification of Japanese policy toward China." This stated that Japan would expect to be consulted hereafter before any foreign loans or other aid was extended to China which might be used to political or military purposes.

casual three of his suits were taken, two guns were missing another time and three weeks ago a razor was stolen. The loss of his fourth suit capped the climax and an investigation is being made of nearby residents.

reach June's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles, or her grandfather, Bernabe Robles, wealthy retired cattleman, officers believed.

The orders to disperse slackened tension which has held citizens at a high pitch since Wednesday afternoon when June was abducted enroute home from school.

The possemen—bronzed cowboys, business men and members of the American Legion—went home for their first hours of sleep since the kidnapping. The crowds which had been keeping constant vigil about the sheriff's office broke up slowly, and early morning found only a few newspapermen about.

Agents Arrive
Two federal agents from Los Angeles and one from El Paso arrived by airplane last night to direct search for the kidnaper.

Since the United States mails were used to deliver the second ransom note, they said national laws had been broken.

The child's family grew more distraught as the hours slipped by without further word from the kidnappers after a second note announced they would accept $10,000 instead of the $15,000 demanded originally, provided the Robles acted quickly. The elder Robles fought down fears that some harm had befallen his grand-daughter but authorities and the rest of the family believed her safe.

Authorities, claiming to have clues, said they sought three men and two women. They said they had found a small automobile similar to that in which June was whisked away by a "dark man" Wednesday as she walked home from school.

Excitement was at such fever pitch, peace authorities already mapped plans to guarantee the safety of any suspects jailed for questioning. The county jail here, which three months ago housed John Dillinger and three members of his gang, was the magnet for hundreds of outraged citizens awaiting developments. The crowd was ominous and restless.

Rewards Posted
Rewards totaled $1,500. They were posted by the city council of Tucson, the Pima county board of supervisors' citizens and the local American Legion post.

Two department of justice agents from Los Angeles and one from El Paso, arrived by plane, demanded handwriting experts scanned the two ransom notes. The first was delivered to June's father, Fernando Robles, an electrical contractor, by a Mexican newsboy soon after June disappeared. Demanding $15,000 in twenty, ten and five dollar bills, or death as the alternative, the message instructed the grandfather to drive along a designated road with the money until he was stopped. He abided by the instructions but was not halted. The second, like the first, was signed with a scrawling "Z."

"Mr. Robles, Child safe. Willing reduce ransom to $10,000 if you act quickly. Child will be returned safely as per the instructions. You must obey the instructions."

A store clerk reported he sold the paper on which both messages were written to a man whose description tallied with that furnished by a purported witness to the kidnapping. The witness, Mrs. Harold Smith, said she observed the man forcing June into the car.

INSTALL NEW LEGION GROUP AT CEREMONY

Impressive ceremonies marked the installation of officers and the presentation of the charter to the new Santa Ana squadron, Sons of the American Legion, at a special meeting last night in Veterans' hall. The squadron has 66 charter members.

W. Hunter Leach, chairman of the American Legion committee in charge of organization of the squadron, presided during the ceremonies last night, aided by officers of the Legion post.

Officers of the squadron named and installed last night were: Charles D. Swanner Jr., captain; Glen Cave, first lieutenant; Kenneth Anderson, second lieutenant; Major Anderson Jr., adjutant; Jack Stowe, chaplain; Wylie Cope-land, sergeant-at-arms; William E. Sandon, finance officer; Dalton Lutz and John Ray Lutz, color guards; Jack Sullivan and J. D. Cobb, color bearers; John Alan Hall, historian.

During a brief business session of the Legion post, George Richards, chairman of the Legion Americanism committee, appointed a committee comprised of Commander Charles D. Swanner, Jules Markel and Otto Jacobs to study several bills in which the Legion is interested and to report back at a future meeting.

The measures are now pending in committees of congress, Richards said, and provide for the exportation of alien communists, to make it a crime to propose the overthrow of the government by force or violence, to protect American labor and reduce crime, he said.

Dutch Couple to Give Program at Church Saturday

John Dona and his wife, "The Holland World Travellers of Amsterdam," will present an all-Dutch program at the Spurgeon Memorial church, Broadway and Church street, Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Dona, who is a newspaperman from Amsterdam, is touring the world with his wife in an automobile. They defray their expenses by giving entertainments and lectures in the various cities where they visit. They have been on tour since 1929.

No charge for admission will be made. The entertainment previously was announced in error for tonight.

Held for Trial, On Morals Charge

Appearing before Police Judge Frank Tausch in Anaheim yesterday afternoon Mrs. Alma Cox, 18, was held to answer to the superior court in a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl. In lieu of $1000 bail she was returned to the county jail to await trial.

The charge against Mrs. Cox grew out of a party held in Anaheim several weeks ago when three young men are alleged to have attacked a minor girl who, it is said, was invited to attend the party by Mrs. Cox. The men, V. W. Baker and Loren Finley, both of Brea, and Sam Ross of Anaheim, also have been held for trial on the contributing charge and are in jail, having failed to post $1000 bond each.

The 20 tons of merchandise included 50 whole carcasses of beef converted today by 20 meat cutters into roasts and steaks. A large shipment of pork, hams, sausage, bacon and lard amounting to several tons also was received by the McIntosh Meat market.

Police News

Twenty gallons of gasoline were drained from four cars on the used car lot of the West Coast Motors company, Fifth and Bush street, sometime last night, it was reported to police.

Claude Downie, 2401 Santiago street, had his stolen bicycle recovered and returned by police yesterday.

D. A. Holbrook, 44, Los Angeles, was booked at the county jail last night for mail fraud by United States Deputy Marshal Frank Besser.

Hix Duncan, 36, colored, 1904 West Fifth street, was arrested on a bench warrant from the justice court on a petty theft charge and booked at the jail last evening by Deputy Sheriffs G. F. McKelvey and Merle Dean.

Ray Hernandez, 20, R. D. 5, Box 302, Santa Ana, was booked at the jail for investigation of grand theft yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ives Brown. The complaint was issued by Judge Chris Pann of Huntington Beach and involved a battery stolen from Max Hoepfner.

Enjoying a Royal Time With Dolly

The cares of being heiress-presumptive to the Norwegian throne rest lightly on Princess Ragnhild, left, daughter of the crown prince. She hasn't a worry in the world as she sits here with her baby sister, Princess Astrid, right, fondling her favorite doll, who's almost as big as she is.

RANCH WATCHMAN CAPTURES SUSPECT

Captured after a pursuing watchman fired a gun in the air, Ruben H. Santee, 45, 927 1/2 East Chestnut street, was turned over to police last night and booked at the county jail for burglary at 12:20 a. m. today.

Frank Navara, watchman on the ranch of J. H. Rathbun, 902 East Chestnut street, surprised Santee in the garage after the suspect had opened a window and entered the building with two empty gasoline cans. Santee ran east on Chestnut street and north on Minnie street but stopped when Navara fired in the air.

Santee admitted to officers that

SANTA MONICA, April 27.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Japan, you got to admire 'em, they are so ambitious, and they just got everything that all the other nations have, but a sense of humor. Their papers took great satisfaction and glee, and screamed it in headlines, "The American fleet can't get through the Panama Canal in twenty-four hours." They never figured that the size of the fleet might have something to do with it.

Twenty-nine new ships have been authorized, and so when the fleet comes back through there, and it can't get through in a day and a half, that will be a scream to Japan.

Republicans coming out pretty strong now against administration, looks like if the Democrats don't get Dillinger, may lose this fall election.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

he had entered the garage six times since November, 1932, and had taken a total of about 30 gallons of gasoline, 20 gallons of oil, large canvas, wrenches, wire cutters, plane and several other tools. Much of the loot was recovered at his home, it was reported by Officers Joe Murillo and A. L. Steward, who booked him at the jail.

THANK JOHNSON FOR WORK ON PORT PROJECT

Appreciation of the work of Senator Hiram Johnson on the Newport harbor project was expressed in a resolution adopted at a dinner meeting held at the Newport Harbor Yacht club last night, with approximately 40 persons present.

The meeting was called by George A. Rogers, a leader in the port improvement, and those present were county officials, including members of the board of supervisors; newspapermen, chamber of commerce heads and others.

The various speakers called upon by Chairman Rogers expressed gratitude for the activities of all connected with the harbor movement. The two senators and representative were complimented and the following resolution was directed to Senator Johnson:

"Whereas, the future growth of Orange county is largely dependent on the development of the coast line, the greatest unit of which is Newport bay, and

"Whereas, consistent effort to secure national recognition of Newport bay has at last resulted in federal co-operation, and

"Whereas, this federal recognition was secured in great measure through the consistent efforts of the senior senator from California, the Honorable Hiram Johnson, now

"Therefore, be it resolved that this group of citizens, representing many interests and sections of Orange county, hereby express our deep appreciation of his splendid help and co-operation."

A similar resolution was ordered sent to Senator W. G. McAdoo.

JURY CONVICTS MAN ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

John B. McKillips, of Long Beach, convicted by a superior court jury last night following his trial on a charge of failing to render aid after an automobile accident, applied to Superior Judge James L. Allen for probation, and will receive a hearing May 4.

The jury, after deliberating about six hours, brought in the "guilty" verdict at 10:35 p. m.

The charge was based upon an accident near Westminster, where McKillips' car collided with that of Emil Goubert, Seal Beach, injuring several occupants of the Goubert car.

ENDS LIFE AFTER MOTOR ACCIDENT

Worried over possible trouble from an automobile wreck in Los Angeles, Yashimatsu Matsura, 40, Irvine Japanese, committed suicide by poisoning himself last night at the home of a friend on the Emery oil lease near Buena Park.

Matsura took the car of T. Katamura, R. D. 2, Box 82, Santa Ana, and was involved in an auto accident over the week end. He absented himself from home until personal effects and visited T. T. yesterday, when he took a few Kamel on the oil lease. During the evening, he disappeared from the house and Kamel found his lifeless body in the barn at 8 o'clock. The man had removed his shoes and tie before taking the poison.

Matsura is unmarried and has a brother in Vacaville, in the northern part of the state. The body has been removed to the McAulay-Sutera funeral home in Fullerton. No inquest will be held, it was announced by Coroner Earl Abbey.

JURY DISAGREES ON DRIVING CHARGES

One jury having disagreed as to his guilt or innocence, another jury will be empaneled May 14 for the second trial of Ivan Gillaspay, 33, Santa Ana, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

The jury at Gillaspay's trial in superior court yesterday, deliberated from 3:30 p. m. until midnight when, being hopelessly deadlocked, the jurors were dismissed by Judge H. G. Ames. The new trial date then was fixed.

Gillaspay today posted $1500 bail for his release from the county jail pending the second trial. The charge against him was based upon an automobile crash in Santa Ana several weeks ago, in which several persons, including his wife, were injured.

DRUNK DRIVER GETS TERM IN BASTILE

Two motorists charged with driving while under the influence of liquor today were before Superior Judge James L. Allen, who sentenced one of them, David Drake, of Santa Ana, to a term of one year in the county jail, as a condition of three years probation. Drake's driving license was revoked.

Drake was arrested on the charge April 11 on Newport boulevard. He was not involved in an accident.

The other defendant, Joe Montana, arrested April 14 on West Fourth street, Santa Ana, pleaded guilty and asked for probation. His hearing was set for May 11.

DETAILS OF RELIEF PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Latest developments in state and federal relief programs, as well as a campaign being started by California cities to demand action on relief projects, were explained last night by five speakers at the Orange County League of Municipalities meeting in the Orange Women's clubhouse.

Mayor L. A. Hogue of Brea and Attorney Albert Launer of Fullerton, League delegates to a special meeting of the California League of Municipalities in San Francisco this week, gave a lengthy report on the State Emergency Relief Administration setup as it affects California, and as presented at the meeting. Hogue also read resolutions that cities are asked to adopt, urging that a works program, instead of a direct relief program, is essential of dealing with unemployment problems, and that unfinished CWA projects should be completed.

Mayor Harold Pomeroy of Southgate amplified the report, while County Welfare Director Byron Curry and Charles Fallert, head of the National Re-employment service in Orange county supplied local statistics and information on relief activities.

Hogue reported that under the SERA, as it now stands, no material insurance or equipment will be furnished. Workers will be secured chiefly from the relief rolls of the counties and local agencies will be used to assist in projects instead of setting up duplicate agencies. Materials now on hand from the CWA may be used but nothing additional can be purchased, except by local units.

Of the four million dollars allocated to California each month, one million will go for transient relief, one and one-half million dollars for Los Angeles county and the remainder for the rest of the state. Since there is only $650,000,000 in the national fund for the next 10 months, the program cannot hope to be as extensive as the CWA, Hogue reported.

Wage scales will be set up in the various counties, but a worker will be limited to the number of hours so that he will merely earn a subsistence wage. In Orange county, as in most sections of California, there will be no payment in food or kind, it was emphasized. The entire county will probably come under the metropolitan classification, it was reported.

"Conditions are worse now than in November because of the cessation of the CWA," the report said, "except where seasonal labor is assisting. There are now 150,000 to 200,000 on the relief rolls of which 30,000 to 40,000 are transients. The alien rolls has been changed, also, and aliens will be entitled to work."

Two resolutions were adopted at the San Francisco meeting and will be sent to all cities in a united front can be made for a demand for federal authorities for new action. The resolutions are as follows:

"Resolved, that a works program instead of a direct relief program is essential as a means of dealing with unemployment problems in the state of California; that the extent, financing and character of the works program should be similar to the CWA when that organization was in full operation; and that the amount available for materials should be sufficient to permit economically sound and socially desirable projects to be undertaken."

"Resolved, that projects uncompleted under the CWA and for which materials have been purchased or for which purchase orders have been issued prior to April 1, should be carried on in all parts of the state of California by the SERA without restrictions and the materials be granted to the operators of the projects."

Mayor Pomeroy, field representative of the state league and in close touch with national activities, declared that any relief program must go further than merely maintaining life, and should be of a constructive nature to preserve the money spent. He urged something similar to the CWA and the budget through the federal government. He pointed out that relief in eight states is now wholly financed by the federal government. 21 states have four-fifths of aid from the national funds, and 36 states contribute 10 per cent of the cost.

"We must continue the experiments to save the nation," Pomeroy said. "The CWA, started too quickly, was bungled and shut down too hurriedly. The cities should unite in demanding a new comprehensive program and a national conference of cities in Washington may be held."

Launer, commenting on the SERA, said that instructions for starting were received last week in Los Angeles and the east bay district in the north but that starting dates for other sections were unknown. He said it was highly possible that direct relief would be given by putting men on relief rolls to work on projects that were left unfinished under the CWA or any other project for which a city will provide all the equipment, insurance and materials.

Relief Load Heavier
Curry outlined relief activities in the county since he assumed office in 1931. He said that the budget for work relief was $18,000 last year, which was $28,000 for direct relief, $25,000 for materials and $5000 for incidentals. He explained that the county has borrowed three times from the state bond fund, $131,000 the first time, $155,000 the second time and the $145,000 allotment just received for use during the next fiscal year.

Curry urged that the state league take the initiative in forcing the federal government to stop transients without any means of support, from entering California. He said it was unfair to use local funds for aiding persons from other

COUNTY-CITY GOVERNMENT IS LEAGUE TOPIC

"The trend of government is a shifting from city and county functions to state and federal supervision, which is manifestly more economical and logical," it was declared last night by Prof. Edward A. Cottrell of Stanford university, speaking at county and city government before the Orange County League of Municipalities in Orange.

The unification of governments is already being affected in many states, the speaker pointed out. This change has brought cities and counties nearer to the federal government than they ever were to the state, he said, with the best example being the extreme unification of the federal government in caring for poor and indigent persons in all the states.

"In most states, voters are moving a great many governmental activities from the local units to state," he said. "Thirty-two states have taken over the state police in unincorporated areas, assuming the duties of sheriffs and constables. In this state, we are moving many of the maintenance functions of the schools to the state."

"The theory is simple. The state created the county to enforce state laws but there have been as many brands of enforcement as there have been counties. Each district attorney and sheriff can enforce the law as he pleases. Under the new system, the district attorney comes under the attorney general, judges come under a central director and peace officers work under state direction."

"We are living under five to 10 layers of taxation, such as federal, state, county, city, school districts, improvement districts, and others. Each taxing board levies a tax rate with little or no coordination or cooperation. This duplication of effort has been brought about because the local government has become incapable to govern itself and delegated the authority to a new body. Seventy-six per cent of the state budget is mandatory because people voted for various services. When retrenchment starts, many officials are put out of office."

"Orange county has perhaps the best area in the state for a county and city government," he said. "Your towns are close together and all have common interests. Health services are already under county direction. Most of the assessing is done by the county. There is a county police radio. It is just as logical that fire protection, police protection, school districts, and the many other functions of government could be more efficient at less cost under county direction."

President A. C. Hasenjaeger, Santa Ana city councilman, added his commendation to Cottrell's remarks and reiterated his inaugural speech when he advocated a city-county government for Orange county. He declared that the taxpayers must be relieved and that one remedy is to combine government to prevent overlapping.

Mayor C. J. Hessel of Orange gave the address of welcome at the meeting, following a dinner served by the Orange Women's club. Incoming councilmen and city officials were introduced.

Claude McDowell, past president of the Orange County Breakfast club, explained the purpose of the Mother of the World pageant to be presented May 12 in Santa Ana and had everyone present sign the huge Mother's day card to be sent to Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. The next meeting of the league will be held at Huntington Beach on Thursday, May 24.

Local Briefs

Robert Mercado, 10, 1219 West First street, suffered a fractured jaw and the loss of two teeth when he fell from a tree at his home yesterday. He was taken to the Orange County hospital for treatment.

Frank Broom, 64, Garden Grove, is confined in the Orange County hospital with a sprained back and other injuries received yesterday when he fell from a load of hay.

He urged that trains be searched at state lines and that drivers of cars be made responsible for all passengers, as a means of cutting down travel of California of persons unable to care for themselves.

Curry said that his department is now caring for 3000 families in the county and that the number is increasing from 20 to 35 families per day. He said that a peak figure of $12,000 for food orders was reached week before last and last week was $10,000, whereas the highest previous weekly total was $3400.

Charles Fallert explained the procedure of the National Re-employment Service and said that 11,000 men were now registered in the county. Cities and the number registered, as given by Fallert as of March 10, were: Santa Ana, 3167; Orange, 1046; Anaheim, 1196; Fullerton, 858; Placentia and Yorba Linda, 345; Brea, 301; La Habra, 284; Buena Park, 485; Garden Grove, 500; Westminster, 192; Seal Beach, 217; Huntington Beach, 485; Costa Mesa, 555; Newport Beach, 293; Laguna Beach, 267; Doheny Park, 219, and Tustin, 198.

He said that he had placed 200 men in private industry this month and that only two PWA projects were operating in the county, the Buaro road bridge and an Anaheim project. He said the practice of his office in placing men is to require that persons residents of the state for three residents of the state for three years. Anyone who is unemployed may register, however, he said.

CLUB WOMEN URGED BY STATE PRESIDENT TO COMBAT DANCE HALL AND LIQUOR SALE EVILS

Urging club members to visit dance halls of the communities in which they live, to observe conditions prevailing and to interest themselves in prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors, Mrs. Benjamin Warner, of Ontario, president of the Southern district of Women's clubs of the state, declared in an address to representatives of county clubs, yesterday at the annual convention of the Orange County Women's Club Federation at the Orange First Christian church, that the liquor problem offers a challenge to clubwomen of today. Election of officers for the year and annual reports were features of the all day meet.

Mrs. A. H. Halleck of Orange, headed the nominating committee and reported the selection of the officers for the coming year; Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake of Orange, was re-elected president, Mrs. Archibald Edwards of Fullerton, vice president; Mrs. J. D. Watkins, of Balboa, recording secretary, and Mrs. R. G. Miller, of Huntington Beach, treasurer.

After stressing the fact that woman's first care is the conscience of the human race, Mrs. Warner declared that the child has the right to expect that fathers and mothers be patterns of truth and integrity and that homes should be filled with love even in times of economic stress. She said many women had worked for the repeal of the liquor laws and she wondered if it worked as they had expected. Mrs. Warner was introduced by Mrs. Archibald Edwards.

Extend Greetings

Greetings to the clubwomen were extended by Mrs. J. T. McInnis, president of the Orange Woman's club, with Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, head of the county federation, presiding. Mrs. Christine Lambert of Orange, played organ solos during the morning and in the afternoon, George Evans, well known Santa Ana violinist, accompanied by Miss Adelaide Proctor, gave a number of violin selections, and Mrs. Lambert played Rubenstein's "Kamenev Ostrov," as an organ solo.

Luncheon was served at the Orange Woman's clubhouse. The Woman's club chorus of Orange gave selections from the "Mikado,"

HEADS CLUBS

Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, of Orange, below, was re-elected president of the Orange County federation of Women's clubs yesterday at the annual meeting of the organization at the Orange Christian church. Mrs. Bonebrake has served as president of the Orange club and heads the Ways and Means of that organization this year.

which they gave as a program for the Orange club this morning. Mrs. Jess Coe was the accompanist and soloists were Mrs. Walter Kogler, Mrs. Leon Des. Larsen, Mrs. Frank Collins, Mrs. Christine Lambert, and Mrs. Horace Newman.

Dr. George A. Warner, was the speaker of the afternoon, speaking on "The Challenge of Today." More liberty and opportunity is to be found in America than has been found in any place on the planet for the past 10,000 years. Dr. Warner declared, and in the last 100 years more progress has been made than ever was made before in a like period.

The speaker quoted Victor Hugo as saying, "There is nothing as terrible as an idea whose time has come." The modern world is trying to be reborn and the trouble is that it is being held back, he said. Shall our generation pass without making any contribution to progress and culture? asked Dr. Warner, as he pointed out that God can make a revelation but it falls on deaf ears unless there is a spirit of inquiry. Revelation, said the speaker, is the top side of discovery and discovery is the human side of revelation. Dr. Warner characterized those who call names when they do not understand, as products of an adolescent civilization. Names do not hurt he said when those who call them do not know what they mean.

Opposes War
Dr. Warner stated that he had been called a Communist by a certain man speaking in Orange, and after giving an outline of his own work during the World war when, with another worker, he aided in raising funds for war work, he declared, he was through forever in aiding to finance a war where both sides were financed to slaughter boys. The speaker cited cases where guns made in England had been used in Germany to kill English boys, and ammunition made in France had been sold to Germany and had been used to kill French boys.

"We can't be provincial, we can't be national, we must be social and international," the speaker declared. "God looks down on a world crushed and broken and God is not satisfied. We should not be satisfied. The ideal whose time is come is love and good will, good will which is a basis of mutual understanding."

Mrs. G. B. Dunham, of Laguna Beach, asked that a letter be sent to congress asking for the passage of 12 major crime control bills. A resolution to this effect was passed.

Eighteen clubs gave brief reports of interest. All the way from the Los Alamitos Woman's Improvement club of 15 members, the smallest club in the county, to the Santa Ana Ebelle which has the largest membership, reports showed increased activity and membership, sound financial status and interesting plans for the future which included among other things, plans for new club houses by at least two clubs, Brea Woman's club and San Juan Capistrano Woman's club.

In all the reports youth played an important part, since three new Junior groups have been started in the county during the year and many of the clubs sponsor Girl Scouts and Girl Reserve groups and sections of young women, and the Barber City Woman's club opens its club house once a month and supplies music and proper chaperonage for the young people of the community to dance.

PAJAMA ANGLE IN BURGLARY CASE DENIED

Young Mrs. Marguerite Palmer, 20, the so-called pajama burglar, who denies that she ever wore pajamas any time during the brief but daring career of crime upon which she embarked shortly after her marriage a year and a half ago, today appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen and pleaded guilty to four counts of burglary.

She then applied for probation and her hearing was set for next Friday, May 4.

Mrs. Palmer officially admitted entering the home of Frank C. Wahl, 1330 South Broadway, Santa Ana, last January 3; another house belonging to Wahl at 934 Fairview, January 13; the Henry C. Phillips home, 805 South Van Ness street, February 3; and the H. O. Rasmussen home, 1415 Louise street, March 15.

Courtroom spectators today who may have expected to see the gaudy pajamas described in police reports by those who claimed to have caught fleeting glimpses of the girl as she invaded various homes, instead saw her modestly attired in a simple gingham dress, over which she wore a coat. She has stoutly denied that she wore pajamas during any of the burglaries.

The Holland program of John Dona, Dutch newspaperman, announced in error for this evening in Spurgeon Memorial church, will be held there Saturday evening. Tonight's event starts with a pot luck dinner at 6:30 for boys of high school and junior college with their parents. This will be followed by the Scout exercises, with music and "stunts," also talks by Justice Morrison and others.

PARTIES HELD FOR COLORADO COUPLE

WESTMINSTER, April 27.—Several social functions were held this week honoring Mr. and Mrs. William Tomlinson, of Denver, who left today to return to their home following several months spent as house guests of Mrs. Tomlinson's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, West Westminster.

A luncheon was given Monday by Mrs. Hart, with a number of former Nebraska friends and others as guests. In the party were Mrs. Willard and Miss Elizabeth Boyce, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Herman Schobel and Miss Bertha Schobel, of South Gate; Mrs. A. J. Fogler, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Charles Nepinsky, of Westminster, the honorees, Mrs. Tomlinson, and the hostess, Mrs. Hart. Sweet peas were used to decorate the luncheon table and the rombs by Mrs. Hart for the occasion.

A dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pritchard at their Midway City home for Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson and Mr. and Mrs. Hart. Mrs. A. J. Fogler acted as hostess at dinner Tuesday evening at her Westminster home for the two couples.

INTIMATE PICTURES OF LIFE AND INDUSTRIES IN MEXICO GIVEN BY RETURNED TRAVELER

(Editor's Note—Loyal K. King, business manager of The Register returned this week from a 14-day trip to Mexico with a group of fellow newspaper publishers. A resume of his interesting experiences is given in two installments, the first of which appears here.)

By LOYAL K. KING

Mexico for the Mexicans! A land of tremendous contrasts where a president gives voice and a touch of reality to the beautiful ideals of a free people, then rules, as a virtual dictator; a land where five of every six are desperately poor and ignorant and where the other one in six finds life comparatively easy and enjoyable, when judged by European standards.

The land itself has charm, beauty and grandeur. Its queer mixtures of civilizations, both Indian and white, exist side by side yet seem not to mix. Each separate patio, as it were, guards the standard of civilization its owner professes. The outside world is shut out and undoubtedly it is well that it is, for the emity that a display of the wide variation of wealth and comfort that exists amongst these people would arouse would undoubtedly lead to serious trouble.

Mexicans are not an unfriendly people; a stranger unable to speak their language is thoughtfully helped on his journey; but I had occasion to notice that a "gringo" speaking Mexican in a manner to denote long residence in the country was not as well regarded. Many a Mexican does not like the white man who lives amongst them but is friendly to the foreigner who has come for a visit; and this spirit is incorporated in recent laws covering foreign investments and employment which have as their ultimate object the preservation of Mexico and her opportunities for the Mexican people.

Leaves Beaten Path
On this trip of 14 days I determined to see Mexico as the Mexicans live it. When the train stopped I ditched the crowd and groped my way to the market square or some historic spot. Always the path leads past the open door of small shops and factories and always the smile of a total stranger and an interest in the way in which they did things was sufficient payment for these kindly people to permit me to see whatever they had of interest. A columnist for a large newspaper syndicate did likewise and for a few days it was a race as to who could see the most, and after that we traveled together.

Probably the most interesting sight was that of an old Indian woman washing a bundle of clothes, not in a river or stream as is the common custom, but under a vine covered arbor in her own back yard. Her wash board was a piece of lava rock, tilted so that the water which drained from it collected in a square five gallon tin oil can. Every now and then she would bend forward and with a tin drinking cup, dip out a cup full of this much used water and moisten the clothes she was rubbing in her hands, and again catch the dripping drops of water in the can in front of her. In France many boys became so proficient in the use of water that whenever it was scarce they would take a cup of it, first brush their teeth, then rather their face and shave, and make the balance do for the washing of face and hands, but I rather suspect that this old Mexican could do a washing and when she got through be short less water than the most economical soldier. And the clothes were clean—according to her standard.

BROTHERHOOD MASS MEETING SET FOR MAY 3

The Mothersingers of Santa Ana, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Page Harper, will present a special musical program for the inter-congregational mass meeting to be held in the First Congregational church in Santa Ana Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p. m. It was announced today by H. F. Kenny, temporary secretary of the Orange County Church Brotherhood, now in process of formation. J. F. Burke is temporary president.

Completion of organization which was launched at a dinner meeting in the First Methodist church on April 12, is expected at the mass meeting. Constitution and nominating committees will make reports at the meeting and a series of challenging resolutions will be submitted.

The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, minister of the host church, will introduce the program of objectives. Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, of Orange, moderator of Presbytery for Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego and Imperial counties, has been invited to dedicate the Orange County Brotherhood "to the task of making a brotherhood out of the neighborhood we call the world," Kenny said. "Men of all churches are invited to enlist in this program of the Kingdom of God," he added.

The Mothersingers, who will present a special program for the meeting, have been organized as a group for more than three years and have been well received in public appearances. Warren Ashley will direct the community singing for the mass meeting.

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

BARKING
There is a little truth in what the wall streeters and the liberals are saying about each other on the front page every day, but not much.

Their excited allegations are mostly old-fashioned baloney for their opposing sides in the struggle over the stock market bill. The wall streeters probably are spending a lot of money on the liberals' side, but it is not doing them much good. The advantage is all with the liberals. They have a few men in congress with whom they work directly. The wall streeters have a dozen congressmen (no more), who are not openly opposing their cause.

OPERATIONS
The Whitney-Redmond stock exchange group operate from a downtown hotel, but is rarely seen around the capital. The Corcoran-Cohen liberal chess-ladders match the conservative with Chairman Fletcher and Rayburn of the senate and the extent of writing statements for Fletcher. Their own cover-up writer, however, is Senator Jim Byrnes, the South Carolina senator, who covers the floor of the senate for them.

Their major influence, however, is Big Bertha (their affectionate name for President Roosevelt) and all this lobbying they do in the name of the people without spending a dime.

INFLUENCE
The poor little rich boys from Wall Street have been doing everything they could do to beat that line-up. They started out by stirring up every employe of every brokerage house around the country to write and wire congressmen. Later they have branched out getting manufacturers to bring pressure on the congressmen.

That is probably legitimate because every manufacturer who issued stock is affected by the bill. The liberals recently made much of this phase of Wall Street lobbying when Rayburn discovered that certain amendments offered by the manufacturers really had come from the stock market's micrograph machine.

The trouble with the Wall Street efficiency is that most congressmen would jump up and run if they saw a Wall streetier coming—that is, if they thought anyone was looking.

RESULTS
All the charges and counter-charges will hold down the end so exactly nothing.

A strong stock market bill will be passed within the next 30 days. Its major provisions will not be written in either house of congress. The real work will be done later in a conference of committee representatives held in the White House.

The way things are shaping back-again now, the house margins provisions, with some liberal amendments, will finally prevail, as will the senate. Independent committee idea. That means you may expect a minimum margin requirement of 45 to 48 percent and the market will be regulated by a federal commission of three to be appointed by the president. Wall Street will not like this, but it can work under such an arrangement.

MASTER STROKE
The best answer Mr. Roosevelt figured out to the Wirt flurry was to take Barney Baruch to the baseball game. Publicity experts considered it a master stroke. Pictures of the president tossing out the first ball always get wide public circulation, and in them this year, Mr. Baruch sat at the right hand of the president. It was the first time he had been invited to the White House in a long time.

TOLLING LEADERS
Speaker Rainey and Floor Leader Byrnes have been working furiously on the administration legislative program since the story got out that Mr. Roosevelt might change leaders next year.

Their feverish activity has not only virtually killed the McLeod bill, objectionable to Mr. Roosevelt, but also is having an influence on silver.

Rainey always has been a brassy silverite, but lately the silver bloc has been complaining that it is unable to get a word out of him on that subject.

NOTES
You can bet your last cent that Germany will not export credit here as long as the continuous interest-defaulting policy on her bonds. Those who are working that the export policy are agreed on that.

The independent stock market commission idea was considered a Wall Street victory at first, but the liberals are coming around now to accept it. They realize Mr. Roosevelt will appoint the commission and their group will be represented on it.

The state department continues to send up to congress bills for payment of claims to French subjects. The house foreign affairs committee knows more than report these bills to the house. There is not a chance of French subjects getting their claims as long as the French war debt policy continues.

Some officials in the Indian bureau, housed in the vast new post office building, have suggested that nations and companies be charged in various ways in building the galleys who become lost.

The mob-name they have for

NEW YORK

By James McMullen

PARADOX
Labor troubles brewing in the oil industry are a five-to-one shot to breed strikes in the near future. But there's a curious paradox in the industry's attitude toward the approaching storm. Instead of dreading it as ruinous, many oil executives are inclined to regard it as a possible lifeline.

The paradox has two keys. One is the continued over-supply of both crude oil and refined oil products. The other is the fact that the industry is scattered over the map—as contrasted with the geographical concentration of the motor industry—and is therefore virtually impossible to organize for a blanket strike.

Therefore such strikes as occur are likely to be scattered and sporadic. This means that a given company affected by a strike would suffer but its competitors would have a swell chance to work over their excess supplies and bolster their profits. The net result would probably be beneficial to the 1934 earnings of the industry as a whole.

OIL
The best informed oil experts in New York make the startling prediction—based on extensive research—that before the end of 1934 the United States will have to begin importing oil to fill its domestic requirements. This is the oil of the present over-supply and production restrictions. The companies aware of the situation don't expect the country to catch on for quite a while. They point out that the cry of "Wobbs" about an impending oil shortage has been raised too often in the last fifteen years. But there's working feverishly to protect themselves.

The point is that the largest fields now in operation are rapidly exhausting the gas pressure which gives them flush production and natural causes will bring a sharp curtailment in their capacity. For some time now new fields of any importance have been discovered with the exception of the Cuyana field near Dallas—which is comparatively small.

Extensive geological surveys and experimental wells in many sections have so far produced no results.

An epidemic of strikes would probably do more to defer the day of reckoning than a quantity of legal restrictions but such a stay would be only temporary. Authorities agree that the one thing seriously upsetting to their calculations would be the discovery of virgin oil land comparable to East Texas or Kettelman Hills.

ROYALTIES
The Federal Trade Commission's decision that oil royalties must be registered under the Securities Act should put an end to petty but extensive racketeering. Legitimate royalty dealers in New York are mostly willing to accept the ruling—even though they feel they would have a good chance of beating it in the courts on the ground that royalties represent real estate rather than securities—in order to purge their business of gyp.

The royalty field has been a fertile source of profit to high-pressure salesmen with good imaginations and no scruples. Two of the communist tricks were the doctoring of official Texas Railroad Commission maps to show non-existent oil wells and stockpiling earnings figures which were correct in themselves but failed to allow for inevitable slackening of production.

BONDS
The Nervous Normans of Wall Street have found something new to worry about. Now that modification of the Securities Act is in sight for which they are clamoring for months—some of the boys think it may hurt the bond market because a large part of the demand which has helped to sustain prices will shift into the new securities market.

The best informed authorities fail to share their gloom. They conclude that the shift might affect the highest grade industrial bonds selling at par or better but cannot see how bonds selling between 60 and 95 will be affected at all. The great majority of new offerings will be issued at par—which takes them out of competition with bonds selling cheaper.

BREWERIES
A member of the Federal Trade Commission—writing to justify the Securities Act as a protector of the public—made the intriguing point that more brewery stocks were floated in the two months after enactment of the Securities law and before registration requirements went into effect than in the five months thereafter.

WHEAT
Wall Street was agog at Secretary Wallace's statement that domestic wheat prices are bound to come down to meet foreign levels. His remarks were certainly no help to the price situation shakily enough already. Local traders hint the object was to discourage lavish spring planting. They would not be surprised if it had more practical effect in that direction than any amount of AAA bonuses for reducing production.

FEDERAL RESERVE
The Federal Reserve's almost defunct prestige is once again alive to sit up and take a little nourishment. Word that the Federal Reserve Authority plan was out for the public—making the suggestion that the nation's money be put under the control of the Federal Reserve—has been a tonic to the dollar. But you'd have trouble finding an informed New Yorker willing to bet that the plan won't be revised with a bang at the next session.

WIESSEMAN'S FORMAL OPENING TOMORROW

A view of Wiesseman's new home at Main and Fifth street is shown in the picture below. The Santa Ana store will stage a formal opening tomorrow to celebrate removal from the former location on Fourth street, which had been occupied by Wiesseman's for more than a quarter of a century. The new place of business has been given a new front, windows and the interior has been attractively remodeled. In addition to the ground floor, the store has a full basement for the display of merchandise.

WIESSEMAN'S STORE, ONE OF CITY'S OLDEST FIRMS, OPENS TOMORROW IN LARGER QUARTERS

Formal opening of Wiesseman's new store at Main and Fifth streets will take place tomorrow, it was announced today by Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, proprietor, after work on remodeling the building has been rushed to completion.

Located at 114 West Fourth street for more than a quarter of a century, Wiesseman's is moving for the first time in the history of the popular store in this city. The new store, completely modernized and most attractive, and well arranged, will enable Wiesseman's to serve their many friends and customers even better than before, with double the amount of floor space that was available in the former location. Shelves line the walls and tables are set about the display rooms to give full opportunity for easy inspection. Carl F. Wiesseman, manager of the store, has arranged to show kitchenware and house furnishings in the basement, which is as large as the ground floor. The ground floor room will be used to display the extensive stock of dinnerware, silver, glassware of all descriptions, china, lamps, pottery, mirrors, etc. Practically all the merchandise in the store is new, nearly all of the older stock having been disposed of in removal sales.

Ball and Honer were the contractors in charge of the alterations in the buildings, which included a new front with attractive display windows, stucco surfacing of the exterior, and remodeling of the interior and basement. The Kelly Roofing company was in charge of the roofing and waterproofing.

For the formal opening tomorrow when Wiesseman's will greet all their old friends and new ones, a special event has been planned. A flowering plant will be given away with each purchase of 50 cents or more, it was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman came to Santa Ana more than a quarter of a century ago. Although they had always lived in large cities before, their first visit to Santa Ana convinced them that Santa Ana was the place they wanted to locate. At the time there were but about 6000 persons living here.

Santa Ana being a dry town added a great deal to the attractiveness of the city, making for a desirable place to live and bring up a family, Mrs. Wiesseman said. Mr. Wiesseman, who was known as a conservative business man, operated at first a variety store, gradually choosing the line of merchandise the store now features. He established the business on a good and solid foundation, offering the public good merchandise, good values and courteous and dependable service, feeling that a good name was worth more than great riches, it was pointed out.

"After Mr. Wiesseman's death," Mrs. Wiesseman said, "the business has been operated along the same lines and with the same ideals. To this end Carl Wiesseman has followed this standard and has continued to give the same dependable service so the store can merit a share of the business in our particular line."

SUCCESS

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

When Boy Blue jumped up to his feet, said Scouty, "I want you to meet my little pals, the Tinymites. We've come to visit you. 'Old Mother Goose let us all come to this land, so we'd have some fun.' Then Boy Blue smiled and bowed real low, and said, 'How do you do?'"

"Oh, we do everything we like," said Duncy. "And we like to hike around to see strange places. Why, we've been most everywhere."

"We've traveled far beneath the sea, and that's as thrilling as can be. We've also had a lot of trips away up in the air."

"My goodness, but that must be fun. Why, all I do all day is run around and tend my cows and sheep. Come, I must find them now."

"While I was sleeping 'neath the hay, I guess they must have walked away. Unless I find them shortly there will be an awful row. You see, a girl who's called Bo Peep asked me to watch her flock of sheep. I she knew they were missing, I don't know what she would do."

Then Coppy said, "They can't be far away from right where we all are. Why not start out to look for them right now? We'll all help you."

Soon Doty shouted, "Mercy me! Just see who's sitting 'neath that tree! It's poor Bo Peep. She's crying, too! I'm going to find out why."

With Goldy, she ran to the lass, and said, "My, my, what's come to pass? We're friends who want to help you. Tell us, please, what makes you cry?"

"I just saw Boy Blue," said Bo Peep. "What has he done with my poor sheep? I know they are not with him. It's no wonder I'm in tears."

"Don't worry, miss. We'll look around until all of your sheep are found. I'm sure they must be grazing near, so please allow your fears."

Santa Ana Y Building In Service 10 Years Today

CELEBRATION DINNER TO BE HELD MAY 22

By RALPH SMEDLEY
General Secretary Santa Ana Y. M. C. A.

Just 10 years ago today, the people of Santa Ana joined for a Sunday afternoon mass meeting to dedicate the new Y. M. C. A. building at Church and Sycamore streets.

The building, erected with funds secured through public contributions, was thrown open to the community for use on Monday, April 23, 1924, and has been in constant use ever since, with the exception of two days in March of last year when the earthquake caused the closing of the district in which the building is located.

The dedication service, held on Sunday, April 27, 1924, was presided over by S. H. Finley, president of the board of directors and chairman of the building committee. The music was directed by Alan A. Revell. Ministers participating were Dr. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist church, the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, of the Church of the Messiah, the Rev. W. A. Betts, pastor of the First M. E. church, and the Rev. A. Stierle, pastor of the Evangelical church.

C. C. Chapman, of Fullerton, chairman of the State Y. M. C. A. committee, brought greetings; Mrs. George Huntington presented a flag in behalf of Sedgwick Women's Relief corps; J. P. Baumgartner and Lloyd Morris unveiled dedicatory tablets; the address was given by Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college.

Plan Celebration
Commemorating this event and celebrating the completion of 10 years of service in the new building, together with the observance of the twentieth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. organization, plans are being made for an anniversary dinner meeting to be held on May 22 by the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., which the memories of the old days will be revived and plans for future work will be considered. Dr. Dexter has been invited to deliver the address of the occasion, and a special invitation has been extended to E. L. Mogge, who directed the campaign for the building fund in 1922.

The Y. M. C. A. building, with its diversified program of activities for men and boys, women and girls, has filled an important place in the life of Santa Ana during these 10 years. Boys who started the boys' department 10 years ago are now full-grown men, married and raising their own boys to be future Y members. Thousands of boys and hundreds of men have used the building and have profited by its facilities. More than 2000 boys have been taught to swim, and the number of girls who have learned the same sport is only a little less.

Each year, the total attendance at the building has run from 50,000 to 60,000, so that if it were possible to secure a complete record of visits to the building it would probably run well over half a million, possibly nearly 600,000. The building, solidly constructed of reinforced concrete, has withstood the hard usage given it, as well as the test of last year's earthquake, and except for the need of fresh paint, it appears to be in as good condition as when it was new. The building committee which supervised the erection of the structure consisted of S. H. Finley, H. A. Lake, L. A. West, C. H. Chapman and H. W. Lewis, all of whom were members of the original board of directors.

CITRUS FREIGHT RATES STAY AT LOWER LEVELS

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—Definite assurance that the freight and refrigeration rate reduction, which reduced California citrus industry costs 2 1/2 million dollars last year, will be extended until May 31, 1935, has been announced by the California Fruit Growers exchange. Concurrence of all railroads has been received by L. A. Strouse, chairman of the traffic committee of the California Citrus league, which handled the negotiations with the carriers.

Discussion of the marketing program for Valencia oranges occupied most of the exchange meeting, with reports by T. H. Powell, chairman of the distribution committee of the California-Arizona citrus marketing agreement, and by exchange members of the growers advisory committee.

H. A. Lynn, Riverside, who retires this week from the growers advisory committee to be succeeded by LeRoy Lyon from Orange county, called attention to shipments during January, February and March of almost 4500 more cars of oranges from all sources than shipped during those months in 1933, and an exchange, f.o.b. average of 40 cents higher for the same period.

Oiling has started on the highway between Valley Springs and San Andreas, reports the National Automobile club. Weather conditions permitting, this work should be completed in a week or two.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOAL OF S. A. J. C. DEBATERS

Santa Ana Junior college debate squad will meet San Bernardino orators in Santa Ana jaycee college hall May 1, at 7:30 p. m., to compete for the Eastern Conference division title, San Bernardino having defeated Chaffey to meet Don speakers who are present holders of the title.

Walter Kling and Robert Tannenbaum of Santa Ana will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the Power of the President Should Be Increased as a Settled Policy." Cleon Skousen and Vernon Johnson of San Bernardino debate affirmatively.

"The public is cordially invited to hear this final debate," states John H. McCoy. "There is no admission charge."

Don debaters have lost only to Riverside this season. San Bernardino defeated all it has met thus far in the Eastern Conference division except Citrus.

Relief Corps in Party at Laguna

LAGUNA BEACH, April 27.—The aides of the Woman's Relief corps met this morning at Legion hall to tie a quilt and this afternoon members of the organization and their friends held a benefit card party there and at which Matilda Dunlap was hostess.

Florence Switzer has resigned her place as conductor and Hattie Brown has been elected to fill the office, with Gladys Stein as assistant. The report of the relief committee this week showed made and 63 bouquets delivered and one basket of flowers. Clothing and food dispensed totaled $13.70. Nellie Hawley reported a net of $4.25 from the aides' party.

Following the meeting there was a social hour with Claire Swingle, Lucile Switzer and Carolyn Tracy hostesses. The Loyalty Club will meet May 2 at the home of Dolan Hansen.

Society Pledges Fund for Church

WESTMINSTER, April 27.—A pledge of $100 toward the Westminster Presbyterian church budget was made Wednesday by the Happy Workers society for the year just starting. The society went over its pledge last year, $165 being paid in for different church purposes.

A new feature for earning funds was introduced at the meeting. An apron will be passed to each member, who will put a patch on it, placing any sum of money she wishes under the patch. When the round is completed the patches will be removed and the sum received by the society announced.

Mrs. Thomas Hosack, vice president of the society, was in charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Virginia Patterson. The public dinner held that day by the society in the home of Mrs. Nell Parr cleared $7.60 for the society.

VARIED PROGRAM, EXCELLENT ACTING MARK OPENING OF SOUTHLAND PLAY TOURNAMENT

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT
With interest in the current Southern California Tournament of One Act Plays noticeably heightened by the varied character of the one acts and the excellent work of the casts in last night's opening program, Santa Ana playgoers today were awaiting the second night's event in Ebell auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock with pleasurable anticipation.

It was the opinion, freely expressed by those in last night's audience that seldom has a tournament opened under such favorable conditions. For the four groups in this first program, had chosen plays of such widely varying themes that the evening from an entertainment standpoint, was unusually interesting.

Little Theater Players of Huntington Beach, making their first appearance in the tournament, selected George Kelly's "The Flattering Word," dealing with one of the universal traits of human nature, personal vanity. Edna Dean Condon, directing the players, also took the amusing character role of "Mrs. Zooker." The ministerial role of "The Rev. Loring Rigley" was played by J. Sherman Denny, with Mrs. Jerry Africa as his wife; Martha Porter as "Lena Zooker" and D. M. Blossom as the dramatic star, "Eugene Tesh."

Capable Presentation
While tournament audiences have seen Percival Wilde's "What Never Dies," in earlier tournaments, they have never seen it more capably presented than it was last night by the Drama league of Sierra Madre, under direction of Moss Renaker. The three scrubwomen developing this little play, also dealing with familiar traits of human nature, were Alma E. Morgan as "Mrs. Armbruster," Ethel Hawks as "Mrs. Daugherty" and Blanche Lines as "Mrs. Finello," with Selwyn Myers as "Jackie."

While more or less elaborate stage settings were required for these and for the final play of the evening, the third production, "Ever Young," by Alice Gerstenberg, was given by the University College Players with the utmost simplicity of setting, being played before the curtains in what represented the corner of a hotel lobby. In contrast to the setting were the striking gowns worn by the characters.

Although unnamed on the cast, the lad who played the hotel page, carefully setting the chairs as a prelude to the action, may well be mentioned for the manner in which he executed his pantomime work, giving it the same snap and thoroughness that might be expected from a regular "bell hop." Entering from the doors of the auditorium, the characters, representing women of wealth who were guests in the hotel, took their places and entered upon the action and dialogue in convincing manner. Cloyde Dalzell directed this group, composed of Marie Pope Wallis as "Mrs. Payne Dexter," Bertha E. Wright as "Mrs. Dorchester," Anya Edlen as "Mrs. Blanchard," and Laura Loomis as "Mrs. Courtney-Page."

Bitter Tragedy
Inglewood Community Players closed the evening's bill with Meredith Hamilton's bitter little tragedy, "And There You Are," set in an artist's studio in Rome. Jack Hamilton directed this group, played by "Mariano" the art patron, by Earle Peterson; the two symbolic statues "Yea" and "Nay," played by Jack Fox and Elwood Larson; "Lily" by Orabel Grain, and the street player, Leslie Foster. Lighting effects and setting added value to the smooth work of the cast which was in keeping with that of the entire evening's bill.

Tonight's program, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be presented by the Touchstone Drama Workshop of U.S.C.; the San Diego Barn Players; Gold Hill Players of Monterey, and Modern Mummies of

RECEIPTS FROM GASOLINE TAX SHOW INCREASE

Gasoline tax receipts by Orange county for the first quarter of 1934 picked up by $3097.29 over the receipts for the corresponding period of 1933, according to figures announced today in Sacramento, showing an apportionment of $63,740 to Orange county for the quarter just ended.

The total gas tax for the same period last year was $60,642.71. County Auditor W. T. Lambert announced.

The increase for the first quarter this year was general throughout the state, the total apportionment for the state for the first quarter being $8,403,374, as compared to $7,938,739 for the same period last year, an increase of 6.1-2 per cent. The Orange county increase was approximately the same percentage.

Under state law, it is pointed out, counties of the state receive one-third of the entire gas tax, or $2,817,530.75, and the balance will be deposited in the state highway fund for new construction and maintenance.

While the first quarter of 1934 showed a gain over the corresponding quarter of 1933, the total gas tax receipts coming to Orange county for the fiscal year 1933-34 show a loss of more than $10,000 from the receipts for the year 1932-33. The present year's total is $267,969.13, as compared to $278,225.06 for the preceding year.

Auto license taxes also decreased about $10,000 from the preceding year. In addition to the report of improved gas tax receipts for the quarter just ended, a report of the state board of equalization shows that the March income from this tax amounted to $4,048,511.61, a gain of 24.4 per cent over March, 1933.

Friends Guests At Bridge Party

BUENA PARK, April 27.—Mrs. R. D. Temple entertained a group of friends with a bridge luncheon served in the green house at her home on Lincoln boulevard this week. Tables were arranged for an afternoon of bridge following the luncheon. Mrs. J. Wahl was awarded first prize and Mrs. Ed Marxen received second. Mrs. James Dunbar was awarded the traveling prize.

Guests included Mrs. George Trapp, Mrs. L. T. Wilsey, Mrs. Richard Nelson, Mrs. Frances Hoopes, Mrs. Ralph Cumming, Mrs. Stanley Kurtz, Mrs. Eleanor Jones, Mrs. Harriet Albright, Mrs. L. T. Tanquary, Mrs. Ruth Thurman, Mrs. Bert Wells, Mrs. Fry and Mrs. Edith Page.

In the old auditorium. On May 10, Wilbur Tupper will give an illustrated travelogue on "Australia" in the new auditorium. May 17, the regular date, has been changed to May 16, because Thursday is school exhibit day. On May 16, candidates for congress on the Democratic ticket are expected to be present at the new auditorium. Frank Gompers, chief of the criminal department of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office, will talk in the old auditorium. The tentative plan for May 31 is to have William Gibbs McAdoo as speaker. He has written he will appear if congress adjourns in time.

Dr. George Warner of the Santa Ana Methodist church is scheduled for June 7 in a talk on "Motion Pictures." Dr. Warner is to be spokesman for the Better Films Association of Orange county.

24-Year-Old Debt Paid Santa Ana By Visitor Here

A stranger walked into the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and asked for Mr. Raymer.

"Do you know me?" asked the stranger.

"I never saw you before in my life," replied Raymer.

"Well, you loaned me $10 about 24 years ago, and I came in to pay it back," which he did.

Then Raymer was reminded that when he was in Spokane, Wash., 24 years ago a young friend of his had borrowed $10, which he had forgotten about. The young friend, since grown and married and now established in business in Spokane, came to Santa Ana to visit relatives, learned that Raymer was here, and paid his debt.

After recovering from the shock, Raymer told his visitor with deep feeling: "I can tell you this much. That ten bucks means more to me right now than it did to you when I loaned it to you."

Dashing Ken Maynard, aided by his horse, Tarzan, and Cecelia Parker, brings a romantic and thrilling page of the West's history to Walker's State theater screen today for a two-day showing of "The Trail Drive."

In this fast-moving outdoor story he has the role of a ranch foreman who guards the rights of a group of cattle owners against a powerful but dishonest buyer.

Other pictures on the entertainment program for Friday and Saturday are a Joe Penner comedy, "Toreador"; a news reel; a cartoon, "Building a Building"; and another chapter of the serial "The Wolf Dog."

Dinner Held by Solano Society

SAN CLEMENTE, April 27.—Sponsored by the Solano church Aid society, a dinner was held in the grammar school Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Community church. Mrs. E. R. Bartlett, Mrs. Julia Detmers and Mrs. T. C. Bowles were the committee in charge. There were 75 present.

A program of sacred music was presented after the dinner under direction of Mrs. Sidney Holland as follows: Solo, "Open My Eyes," Betty Hopkins; solo, "Be Not Anxious," Mr. Bell; musical reading, Mrs. Holland; duet, "Stand Up For Jesus," Mary Grant and Eileen Barry; quartet, "Master, The Tempest Is Raging," Mrs. Clara Berg, Mrs. Holland, Robert Burhans and Roland Peterson.

BACKS REPORTS COUNTY VOTERS SHOWING GAINS

Orange county's voting strength, like business, is rapidly gaining, according to latest figures of registration, announced today by County Clerk J. M. Backs, which show a total of 58,871, as compared to 55,300 at the special state and harbor bond election last December.

The present figure shows that the county has recovered approximately 50 per cent of the voting lost in the slump from the peak of 62,306 at the November general election of 1932 down to the low mark of 54,545 in May, 1933.

At the present rate of registration, with nearly three months remaining before registration closes for the August primary election, Backs estimates a probable total of 60,000 by that period. The total by the time of the November election may reach the old record mark of November, 1932, he believes.

Incidentally the Democratic trend of late years still is in progress, latest figures show. While all other parties have lost ground since 1932, the Democratic registration alone is higher than in that record year, the total jumping from 21,712 then to 22,406 now. The Republican registration, in contrast, dropped from the 1933 mark of 37,921 to 34,104 at present.

Thus the Democratic party has gained three per cent while the Republicans have lost three per cent. The Democrats had 61 per cent of the total in 1932 and now have 58 per cent. The Democrats in 1932 numbered 35 per cent of the total, and now have 38 per cent.

The Socialists dropped from 238 in 1932 to 334; the Prohibition registration from 473 to 460; Liberty from 74 to 62; Declining to state and miscellaneous, dropped from 1738 to 1505.

There is one Communist registered in the county, a gain of 100 per cent for that party.

Job's Daughters Give First Annual Formal Dance

Santa Ana Bethel Job's Daughters was successful in making its first annual formal dance an unusually colorful and enjoyable event entertaining some 400 members and guests Tuesday night in the Masonic temple ballroom. The scene was an animated and lovely one, with the girls of the hostesses organization in the smartest of filmy dance frocks and wearing graceful corsage bouquets.

Although they were hostesses, the members were relieved of many of the customary duties of the evening, such as checkroom, presiding at the punch bowls, and arranging for the music. For the patrons and patronesses in addition to lending their presence as chaperones, assumed those responsibilities, permitting the young people an evening devoted to pleasure. Music was furnished by Mrs. Nye Martin and her orchestra.

Patrons and patronesses were Messrs. and Mesdames William J. Dean, Frank Sawyer, John Doherty, Claude McFarren, George Wheeler and Leslie Pearson. Among special guests present were Mrs. Myrtle Schwager of Anaheim, deputy grand of Job's Daughters, and masters of the Santa Ana Blue Lodges with their wives.

Club's Social Section Is Entertained in Hornbeak Home

Spring lent its charm of flowers and sunshine to Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the social section of Santa Ana Women's club in the home of Mrs. F. B. Hornbeak, 519 Olive street. Mrs. Hornbeak was joined in dispensing hospitality by Mrs. Earl Ladd, Mrs. Nannie Myers and Mrs. R. A. McMahon.

The home, with its airy big rooms, seemed especially well adapted to receiving the large number of members assembled to enjoy the afternoon. There were various games, with half a dozen tables required for bridge, and a lesser number for anagrams. Prizes in these two diversions went to Mrs. S. E. Littrell, scoring in the latter game, and to Mrs. Mary Cowley and Mrs. George L. Wright, first and second high in bridge.

At the refreshment hour, card tables were arranged with pretty linens and small baskets of bright blossoms for serving a refreshing molded salad with toasted cheese wafers and coffee.

Mrs. W. F. DeWolf was a special guest of the afternoon. Mrs. Hornbeak has placed her home at the disposal of the club for its meeting on Tuesday, May 1, when a luncheon will precede the interesting phases of the program.

Party Appointments Carry Out Red Color Theme

Appointments at a recent party in celebration of Master Gordon York Mills' fifth natal day included tall red tapers in quaint black metal candlesticks which have become traditional in their use at birthday observances in the little lad's family. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Mills, in whose home at 1115 West Chestnut street the affair was given.

Ice cream and birthday cake topped with red candles were served at a table whose centerpiece of red balloons and painted wooden animals suggested the color theme further evidenced in nut cups and doilies used. Whistles were favors, and small dogs served as place cards.

The refreshment hour was preceded by a peanut hunt and games. During the afternoon "Sleepytown Express" was played over radio KREG in compliment to the birthday celebrant.

Present for the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Mills and Gordon York Mills were Charles Blandin, Ethelmae Hazen, Donald Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Blandin, and Gordon's grandmother, Dr. Margaret M. York of Glendale.

ROTARY CLUB TOLD OF SCHOOL OUTLOOK

ORANGE, April 27.—An optimistic outlook for the schools of the nation was given by Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, in a talk before members of the Orange Rotary club Thursday.

Keller Watson was program chairman.

The sales tax of California has unraveled the situation for many school districts, said the speaker, naming Imperial county as one of those which this spring is able to pay its school bills after a period of the issuance of warrants.

Adkinson named as educational problems the training of too many teachers, which he declared must be met; the earthquake problem in Southern California, no money as yet having been turned over to the schools damaged, and the tenure law.

Of the latter, Adkinson said all are agreed something must be done to give school boards power to dismiss teachers for cause.

NEWS MAKERS ON AIR AGAIN THIS EVENING

Prominent personalities to be included in this week's broadcast of "People Who Make News," from KREG tonight at 7:30, are John (Sonny) T. Trunk, T. V. Soong, Abbot Chao Kung and Soong, Harriette Massarik. It seems that Sonny Trunk made a lot of headlines lately by enlisting 25 crack American flyers and an equal number of first-class mechanics in the service of the Colombian government. "News-Week," under whose auspices these broadcasts are made, says that in view of the fact that Colombia and Peru have been preparing for war and that the Colombian consul general has been busy engaging American aviators in New York City, hence the story of Sonny Trunk is to be described, is causing Japanese financiers great anguish by his formation, in China, of a firm designated to hit the Japanese squarely in the pocketbook. Another personality with a Chinese name is that of Abbot Chao Kung, a man with an extraordinary career in religious circles, as a spy during the World war, as a forger and now as a Buddhist monk.

Last on the list of this week's broadcast is Thomas G. Massarik, an octogenarian who has twice been president of Czechoslovakia, a nice old fellow with a bushy white beard and mustache and of whom his people are very fond.

An elaborate multiple microphone outlet and wiring system, the result of five years' experimentation, will be used in broadcasting accounts of the University of Pennsylvania's 40th annual relay Carnival over the Columbia network including KJH Saturday. Ted Husing will be at the microphone, assisted by Les Quailley and Ken Stowman. The broadcasts will be heard from 12 to 2:15 p. m.

Both long and short wave facilities of the Columbia network will be combined for a special broadcast in which Robert L. ("Believe It or Not") Ripley will address his greetings to the "Loneliest people in the world," from 3 to 3:15 p. m. Saturday, W2XE, New York (6120 kilocycles), and W3XAU Philadelphia (9590 kilocycles), extending its regular schedule to carry the special program, will augment the regular CBS chain which includes KJH.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK PROGRAM ON AIR TODAY

The third Santa Ana Schools Broadcast from KREG is scheduled for 6 o'clock tonight and will be made in honor of Public Schools Week. The demonstrations to be made in tonight's broadcast will be taken from the music and social science departments.

Robert S. Farrar of Willard Junior High School will enliven the so-called "dry" subject of history with an edifying discussion, assisted by three students from a typical ninth-grade social science class, to show how the understanding of current topics may be increased and broadened.

The Boys' Glee Club of the same school, under the direction of Miss Esther Jean Davis, will sing "The Volga Boatman" and "Those Pals of Ours" as examples of voice-training.

During Public Schools Week, literally thousands of citizens have availed themselves of the opportunity afforded them to visit the schools.

The Santa Ana Schools Broadcasts are made each Friday from the local station.

KREG NOTES

"State Parks in the West" is the subject of an informative talk to be broadcast from KREG tomorrow at 11 a. m. under the auspices of the National Park service, U. S. Department of the Interior. Talks on state and national parks and monuments are scheduled each Saturday at that time.

The last episode of Kay Van Ripper's dramatization of "Charles Dickens," telling of the youthful love of the great author, will be heard on KREG tonight at 8:30. It is said that he immortalized her as "Dora" in "David Copperfield." An all-star cast is featured.

"The hills' soft, graceful slope of breast Sing to the weary: 'Stay and rest!'" While the dying ray of the flame-clear sun Chants to the world that the day is done."

This thought comprises the theme of tonight's presentation of the "Poet of the Evening Star" on KREG at 7:15 when he will include the poems "Lost Love," "Ignorance," "Gnostic" and "Autumn Winds." The KREG poet reads each Friday at the above time and responds to requests for favorite poems.

WESTMINSTER SCHOOL BAND TO BROADCAST

Just preceding the Santa Ana city schools broadcast from KREG, the Hoover school of Westminster will offer a 15-minute harmonica band program, starting at 5:45 this evening, instead of 6 o'clock as stated yesterday.

In contrast with the Santa Ana schools broadcast, the presentation will be made purely as an entertainment feature by the 13 Mexican children who comprise the band, none of whom are over 12 years of age. The band has been heard on several occasions, among them a program on a Hollywood radio station, at the district meeting of the Orange County P. T. A. and at various schools.

In addition to selections by the entire band, Tony Rivera, harmonica soloist, will play several numbers.

The band was organized and is directed by the principal of Hoover school, Nevin Otis.

ROBERT SPEED IN WEEKLY BROADCAST

This evening on the Adult Education program, Robert Speed, instructor in magazine writing, and his pupil, Jud Sutherland, will broadcast from KREG the opening sketch of a series entitled, "When the City Sleeps." This series will reproduce the experience of the operator of an all-night gasoline station during those hours when most citizens are slumbering.

This series of broadcasts will be in response to a recent suggestion which reached "Jud and Bob" through the mail in answer to their invitation to listeners to send in ideas they would like to have developed into stories on the regular Friday evening Adult Education broadcast. So many of these were received that Mr. Speed referred the choice to his Monday evening class in creative writing at Francis Willard school. The class voted for these experiences of the night worker. This request was sent in by Charles C. Hinton who stated on his card that he was himself the operator of an all-night gas station.

"When the City Sleeps starts at 5:30 this evening.

CAMPAIGN FOR EMPLOYMENT IN S. A. IS OPENED

With a definite plan to put men to work and increase business in Santa Ana, the Santa Ana renovation campaign definitely is launched under the direction of a group of 87 citizens with the sponsorship of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and the city council, it was announced today.

May 1 will see the commencement of a concentrated appeal to the public and on May 8 or 9 a corps of "white collar" men will begin a survey of the residences and structures of the city in an effort to secure pledges to do work within the next four months. J. P. Baumgartner, president of the chamber of commerce, is general chairman of the citizens group which comprises representatives of the city government, civic clubs, women's organizations, the ministry and numerous lines of business.

The executive committee has named Wayne Goble and William J. Tway to handle the publicity and organization of the campaign. John W. Estes is the campaign manager giving general advice to those handling detail and lending special attention to the survey force.

"With the CWA ended, with relief problems growing and with any future federal labor program still undecided, the citizenry of Santa Ana has banded together to step into the breach and put men to work," Estes said. "We are making a patriotic appeal wholly in accordance with the National Recovery administration and much of the detail of the plan is laid out by the United States Department of Commerce. The full cooperation of the National Recovery Service, the county Emergency Relief administration and the county welfare department is offered."

"Renovize" is a coined word which means to repair, replace, remodel and improve, it is explained. It emphasizes in the public mind the opportunity to do those small things which are needed, but neglected. It refers generally to those requirements of the household which are the frequent subject of meal time discussion in many homes. It shows graphically to the individual how a community effort to do small things, without personal sacrifice, can result in a gross sum of work that will yield needed payroll to thousands in business for the necessities of life.

"Renovize is not a selling campaign," Estes said. "Our survey men merely carry pledges enumerating a list of 36 possible home improvements. If the owner or tenant desires to cooperate, whether to the extent of $1 or $1000 he signs the pledge to perform certain designated work. He is the judge of the kind of work and the amount to be spent. No salesman will follow the pledge. The Renovize headquarters will simply lend every service to aid the signer with information or in securing laborers for him through accepted agencies."

Advances have been tendered to the chamber of commerce pending the launching of the program, since preliminaries of the work have been announced in The Register. These will be announced next week, it is reported.

PUPILS OVERCOME IN SWIMMING TANK

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 27.—(UP)—Two Stanford University students were reported recovering today after partial asphyxiation from chlorine gas in the university swimming pool.

The gas victims are Sidney Kraul, Lindsay, Cal., and Jack Damerel, Los Angeles. They were swimming in the pool when a workman turned on the water purifier. The hose discharged the gas over the pool instead of into the water, it was said. Kraul and Damerel barely reached the edge of the pool before they collapsed. They were given emergency oxygen treatment at Palo Alto hospital.

John Triola, Alameda, a swimming team member, also was in the pool but was not affected.

PROGRESS OF AIR TRANSPORT TOLD TO LIONS

Air travel, over regularly established lines, has become so safe that on the average, one could make the transcontinental trip from Los Angeles to New York by air each day for twenty-five years before having a fatality.

This was the declaration of Dudley M. Steele, chairman of the state chamber of commerce aviation committee, and aviation department manager of the Richfield Oil company, speaking yesterday before the Santa Ana Lions club at James cafe.

"Regular air lines flew 16,000,000 passenger miles per fatality last year," Steele declared. "As compared with 5,600,000 in 1931. Automobiles last year killed 30,000 people and injured 850,000. In the Richfield company, we have nine planes, and they have flown 850,000 miles without a single fatality."

The speaker briefly recounted the rapid growth of air transportation in the past five years, showing that U. S. air lines flew ten million miles in 1928, as compared with 55 million miles in 1932. The annual number of air passengers increased in the five year period from 50,000 to 550,000.

Air passenger rates had been reduced from 11 cents per mile to approximately 6 cents per mile, reducing the one-way rate to New York from $350 to $160, he said.

America is far ahead of Europe in air transportation, the speaker declared. American planes flew 55 million miles in daylight and 27 million miles after dark last year, while the European total for both day and night was 28 million miles.

Dale Deckert was chairman of the day, and Steele's talk was preceded by a clever display of magic tricks by Floyd Stewart. Rodney Bacon told of the plans for the forthcoming "Mothers of the World Pageant" to be given at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl on May 13, and introduced Charles Wollach, director of the event, which it is hoped may become an outstanding annual attraction. Members of the club signed their names upon the beautiful Mothers Day card which will be sent to Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House. Ray Adkinson is next week's chairman, with Dr. Royal B. Dye as speaker, on the subject of Africa.

MRS. CARRIE SMITH DIES AT HER HOME

Mrs. Carrie Smith, 76, resident of Santa Ana for the past 51 years and of California for 60 years, died at her home, 307 Pomona street, Santa Ana, today. She had been ill with heart disease.

She is survived by her husband, Charles H. Smith. She was a native of Australia.

Funeral services will be announced later by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

COMEDY, DRAMA AT WEST COAST

"The Meanest Gal in Town," a riotous comedy featuring such famous comedians as ZaSu Pitts, Pert Kelton, El Brendel, James Gleason and Skeets Gallagher, with another feature, "Whirlpool," starring Jack Holt, Jean Arthur, Donald Cook, Lila Lee and Allen Jenkins, open at the Fox West Coast theater today for a three-day showing.

"Whirlpool" is a dramatic story of a man who sought oblivion through his wife and child might find a new life. In the role of a man who gives up his life that his family might not be disgraced, Holt has the type of two-faced characterization which has made him famous.

Hilarious dialogue and unusual characterizations are combined in the comedy, "The Meanest Gal in Town," a depression story cen-

FIRST SHOWING OF NEW PLANE HERE SATURDAY

For the first time on the Pacific Coast, the new and modern Curtis-Conger twin-motored bi-plane to be put into service May 1 by the American Airways, will be available for public inspection at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Eddie Martin airport, south of Santa Ana. It was learned this afternoon.

Dale Deckert, chairman of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, made arrangements for the return of the big plane here tomorrow for a public inspection when it paid a brief visit to the local airport this afternoon.

The first public showing on the Pacific Coast is being made in Santa Ana because this city is the home town of Johnny Martin, well known aviator who is official pilot of the plane.

The plane, which is scheduled to make regular flights between Los Angeles and El Paso, is capable of 175 miles an hour cruising speed. It has 16 berths built in the cabin, providing modern facilities for sleeping. It is the most modern plane yet constructed, it was stated.

Residents of Orange county who are interested in seeing the plane will be permitted to go into the interior and inspect the berths and other modern equipment, Deckert announced.

BOULDER DAM ROAD Construction on the Kingman-Boulder Dam highway is progressing nicely, according to the National Automobile club. About 40 per cent of the work on the three-mile stretch near the dam has been completed.

Bridge Enjoyed In Tustin Home

TUSTIN, April 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Lindsey and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Russell were hosts at a delightful affair Wednesday night when they entertained members of the Neighborhood club at the Russell home on Bryan street.

Prizes for high score in bridge went to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sharpless. Consolation awards went to Arthur Trickey and Mrs. E. A. Watson. Sandwiches, olives, strawberry shortcake and coffee were served at pretty appointed tables. Baskets of spring flowers decorated the rooms.

Those sharing the happy occasion with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey and Mr. and Mrs. Russell, were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sharpless and Mr. and Mrs. Owen A. Murray.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon
Simple Salad:
1-3 cup grated cabbage
1-3 cup grated raw carrot
1-3 cup cubed pineapple
12 seedless raisins
Lettuce heart leaves
2 tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
Salt and pepper
2 tbsps. crushed zwieback (for top)
1 square matzo or
2 slices zwieback warmed and spread with
1 tsp. butter
Clear tea, with lemon and saccharin if desired.

your friends a favor if you served this particular salad for your informal luncheons? It's fat calories are just minus . . . it is colorful . . . appetizing . . . and will satisfy the most demanding appetite. Do not dress the salads but pass both diet and regulation oil mayonnaise, allowing a choice. Mineral oil mayonnaise is not tolerated by everyone.

Tiny baking powder biscuits or corn muffins with chopped maraschino cherries in the batter go nicely with this salad.

How does this idea appeal to you? When you are giving a small luncheon use a caloric list at each place for a favor. Of course, the list would need to be attractively wrapped in cellophane and tied with a crisp ribbon, but think of the fun your guests would have when the favors were unwrapped and they began to count the calories in their luncheon.

You may have as many of the lists as you wish. Just send me a big stamped, self-addressed envelope and one recipe for each list requested—six lists—six recipes.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Plain Vanilla Ice Cream
3 cups mixed milk and thin cream
3 egg yolks mixed with
1 level tbsps. cornstarch and
1/4 cup milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
Small pinch of salt
3 egg whites beaten stiff, mixed with 1-2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups whipping cream (extra measure)
2 tbsps. vanilla
3 drops of almond extract.

To get the right mixture of milk and cream pour the top off two bottles of milk. Scald in a double boiler, adding the sugar to the milk. Beat the egg yolks, cornstarch and milk together and pour into the hot milk through a small wire strainer (to eliminate egg strings). Stir constantly until the consistency of heavy cream, add the pinch of salt, and let cool. When quite cool, add the stiffly beaten egg whites, beat well to mix, then whip in the beaten cream, add flavorings and pour into freezing pans. This smooth, rich cream never varies in quality. Put into the freezing chamber at night or after breakfast and ice-cube temperature gives you a perfect ice cream by luncheon time if the pans are shallow. If a deep brood tin is used, the cream takes a full eight hours to become solid. Do not stir after putting in pans. The yield is 1 1/2 quarts, enough to serve 12 or 15.

The caloric total runs approximately 4600 and is excessively high in energy and fat making units.

Saturday: Squab Chicken stuffed with curried rice.

ANN MEREDITH.

✦ marks the spot

Yes, X marks the spot where you sat at your bridge luncheon yesterday and realized how dismal that "bargain counter" coffee was. Wasn't it weird how the presence of guests made you sense that uninspiring flavor? And to think that your poor husband has been drinking such coffee! You thought he was satisfied—what's more, you tried to believe you were. And all of this regret because you felt you should economize on coffee. Let's not go through this experience again. Remember, you drink coffee by the cup—not by the pound. And when you buy Hills Bros. Coffee you'll get so many fine-tasting cups of coffee that you'll want to have the girls over for lunch again—at once!

FLATTERING CAPE FROCK

FOR SIZES 34 TO 46

PATTERN 1828

By ANNE ADAMS

A cape frock is not only young looking, but surprisingly slenderizing. This one particularly so, since it has been designed to cover a full bust and stout arms. The silhouette is further slimmed by an absence of belt and by those delightful and carefully planned skirt panels. A charming frock for a sheer fabric in silk or cotton, in print or monotone. We like the new dark grounds with small, spaced colorful motifs—they're ideal for full figures. The cape may be fashioned of contrast if you wish.

Pattern 1828 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 34 takes 4 1/4 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE LATEST EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK features all the best seasonal styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be the owner of a book of FIFTY FIVE CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Address orders to Register Pattern Department.

ball team who have been awarded basketball letters include Jean Courtney, with 100 points; Eileen Reid, 100 points; Blanche Mendoza, 100 points; Janice Margerat, 100 points; Grace Berge, 100 points; Elinor Bliss, 105; Nora Mae Bingle, 100; Clara Belle Lumbley, 100; Mary Jean Ramsey, 30; Louisiana Chavez, 50. Elinor Bliss captained the team.

Assembly Programs
Varied programs have been presented at the school recently during upper and lower division assemblies.

The latest upper division assembly featured a variety program opened by the Jefferson Kindergarten band playing "Soldiers' Chorus." Patricia Emlson gave a reading, "The Little Green Peach." Beatrice and Audrey Granas played piano and violin numbers which had been written by Beatrice Granas; a skit, "Dr. Cut Up," was given by Jimmie Tucker and Milton Smith; members of Miss Esther Burke's dancing school presenting a dance and song number, "The Three Little Pigs and Their Girl Friends"; Patricia and Peggy Redman contributed selections, "The Woman in the Shoe," "The Old Spinning Wheel" and "Polly." Zylpha Mathews was announcer.

Members of Santa Ana American Legion post talked on "Citizenship" at an earlier upper division assembly. G. S. Richardson introduced the speakers, including Jules Markel, Charles Swanner, Ernest Pritchard, F. E. Henderson and Colonel M. B. Wellington.

A lower division assembly program included singing of "Vagabond Song" and "Those Pale of Ours" by the Boys' Glee club. Mildred Tucker gave a reading, "Trials of a School Teacher"; Sylvia White played violin solos, accompanied by Virginia Bruns. Joel Ozle, member of the 20-30 club, presented medals to winners in the tennis tournament.

Class Picnic
Mrs. Whitakers' H-S-1 Home room divided into two groups for recent picnics, some of the students going to Balboa Beach and others going to Irvine park. Mrs. Rutan and Mrs. Letto were sponsors for the events.

Why Some Men Succeed

What's a difference there is in men! Some of them are full of pep, energy, ability. They get there ahead of the other fellow.

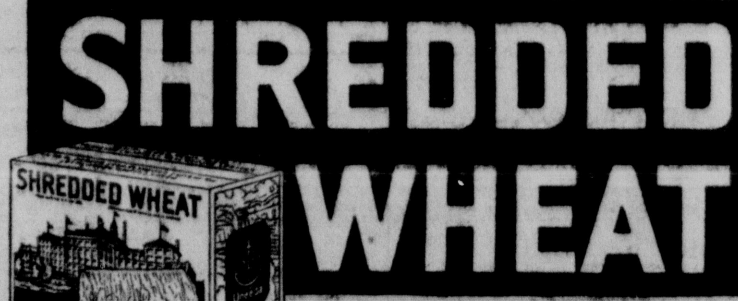

What's the difference?

Usually a man eats success or failure at the breakfast table. Often he makes or loses a contract according to what he eats for lunch. Wise eating is the smartest thing a business man can do. At least one meal a day, especially in this warm weather, eat Shredded Wheat, milk, and fresh fruit.

If you didn't have any other food, you could live on this combination, and be mighty well on it, too. It gives your body all it needs for energy, tissue building, and disease resistance, and it gives you brain to keep you regular.

The right food has a great deal to do with your success. Try Shredded Wheat for one meal a day, and see what happens to you!

"THE MARCH ON SACRAMENTO"

What is to be done concerning the governorship? The position of governor of California in these stressing times, with the weight of responsibility from every direction, is not a work that a man worthy of the job is likely to seriously covet. A man who is worthy of the position to take charge of California or any other state in these days, is a man who will undertake it only because he feels that he can serve his day and generation in doing so.

There are serious mix-ups in both party programs. Governor Rolph's physical condition is not sufficiently well-known to hazard a statement as to what he will do. If he is able to carry on a campaign and undertakes to do so, he will be a formidable candidate. It is very probable, with his organization in the state, with his many friends, and a divided field, that he may be re-nominated by the party.

Ex-governor C. C. Young, in the minds of many, made a most estimable, business-like governor, and the contest for the Republican nomination will probably be between him and Rolph, if Rolph should run. In many respects, in our judgment, the administration of ex-Governor Young was in marked contrast to that of our present governor. Worthiness and efficiency were the virtues that seemed to appeal to Governor Young in making his appointments, while loyal support of himself is the main consideration of our present governor.

There is a considerable question concerning John Quinn. He would be a strong contender if his health permits him to be a candidate. And there are other men who are making many friends, like State Treasurer Johnson and Senator Jones. It does not appear whether Mr. Haight will be a candidate on an independent ticket or on the Republican ticket.

In the Democratic camp there is even greater confusion. This confusion is primarily due to the early candidacy of Upton Sinclair. Upton Sinclair, with his interest always with the masses and politically a socialist, changed his party affiliation to that of a Democrat and has been preaching on the theme, "End Poverty in California." It is the following which he has developed which has caused great confusion in the Democratic ranks. It has reached the point where many Democrats, who are not allied with the Sinclair movement, feel that with the number of candidates in the field for the Democratic nomination, Sinclair is almost certain to win.

A man upon whom all the factional interests might unite has been the one for whom these leaders have been looking. For a period it looked as though Mr. Elliott might be that man. It now appears it has been switched to George Creel. It is a strange situation, for Sinclair goes on in his campaign, and it is believed by many of those who would like to keep Sinclair out of the nomination, that the candidate who does win, must get a part of the voters who now seem inclined to Sinclair. Certainly if a man other than Sinclair should get the Democratic nomination he will need a part of the Sinclair vote to be elected.

It is hoped by those who would favor Creel that it will not be too apparent that they are united on him for the purpose of defeating Sinclair, for this would tend to alienate a large vote which would be much needed in election. It is the question of the unemployed and the near-unemployed that is causing all this agitation. Mr. Haight has a platform that covers a great deal of the ground that Mr. Sinclair's platform does, but also takes up other state governmental questions which Sinclair avoids. In case of Creel's nomination, and either Young, Rolph or Quinn on the Republican ticket, if Haight runs as a third party candidate, his platform would suggest that he would corral a large part of the Sinclair vote, which, on the face of it, would aid the Republican rather than the Democratic candidates.

We expect, when the candidates have all filed, and their platforms made known, to express our own convictions in regard to the candidates individually. But we are simply speculating here as to what appears to be in the minds of the political leaders of the state in their varied movements.

SCIENTIFIC FACTS ON LIQUOR SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED

In San Francisco one evening this week an army officer and a civilian, very good friends, loaded up with liquor when they were out together. They got into a dispute over some inconsequential matter. The officer drove to his home, the other man following on foot. Continuing the dispute at the door of the officer's home, the officer finally stabbed his friend to death with a short Filipino sword which he took from the place where it hung on the wall. The death really was caused by alcohol.

Liquor was unquestionably the indirect cause of the recent killing in Santa Ana, as there was a direct connection, as all know, from the shooting to the drinking.

We have had an exhibition of drunkenness which has caused objection to a certain dance hall in the city. With these facts people are very familiar. From every side is the general declaration that conditions are getting worse even than the situation was in the old days of the saloon.

There has been a neglect of the teaching of the effects of alcohol on the system in the public schools in many places. In part, the young people have grown up in ignorance of many facts concerning this evil, with which their parents were thoroughly familiar.

The other day we were told of an incident in which a school girl was told by one of the teachers, something concerning the effects of drink. The girl was impressed. She told it to her mother. Her mother came to the teacher in anger. She upbraided the teacher for giving such information to her daughter and told the teacher that she should stick to teaching. Could any facts show a greater evidence that there was need of scientific teaching of this nature in our public schools?

Many attributed the increasing prohibition sentiment of twenty-five years ago to the rapacious greed of the liquor sellers, who were bound to increase sales at all costs. This same greed is carrying on now, and it looks like a revolt of the masses against the traffic, even by the thousands who thought that the present method would be an improvement. When the action comes, the liquor crowd, as in former days, will have themselves to blame for observing no regulations and encouraging peace officers to permit them to violate every ordinance.

IS HITLER WANING?

The report of an economic crisis in Germany forbodes little good for the continuing power of Hitler. It is one thing to gain power in a nation. It is difficult to hold it when the economic structure crumbles. In a country like our own, much more self-sufficient than Germany is or ever can be, there is little chance for the party to retain power in the midst of an economic crisis, as is well shown by the crushing defeat of Mr. Hoover. And just as quickly will the electorate turn on Mr. Roosevelt unless the process of recovery goes on.

It has often been said that it is a very easy matter to make a revolution when the people are clamoring for a change. But it is not so easy to know what to do with a revolution after it is gotten. That is the problem Hitler will have to face. With a nation's resources exhausted, and with great debts hanging over them, it is well-nigh impossible to get the necessary raw material which can be processed into manufactured products. Without ability to buy, and with no market in which to sell, and with a population geared to an elaborate industrial system,—there is a problem that Herr Hitler must meet.

Unfortunately, in his persecuting policy toward the Jews, in his crushing out of all opposition, in his alienation of many of Germany's most devout religionists, and in his insistence on Aryan superiority, he has lost the friendship of the world. German leaders of the past and German leaders of the present have been singularly incapable of appreciating the psychology of other peoples. It was bungling that brought on the war that was so disastrous to Germany. And it is the same bungling which is destroying the confidence of other nations in the German character and the German policies.

Stresemann and Bruening were gradually lifting Germany out of the morass. The Locarno treaty, the successive adjustments of the reparation payments, the admission of Germany into the League of Nations, reviving confidence in Europe in the German leaders and the German people,—these were lifting Germany out of her terrible plight. It was a hard job, and it required courage and sacrifice. The mistake which has been made is that of hurrying a process which could only be brought about gradually.

Two Presidents and Haiti

Christian Science Monitor

For nineteen years the people of Haiti have smarted under the conditions imposed by a treaty, a protocol and loan contracts which, in the words of President Stenio Vincent in a letter to President Roosevelt last December, were "to infringe the essential attribute of the sovereignty of a friendly nation." In the same letter President Vincent asked, "Is this disparagement of a member of the great Pan-American family, after all, really necessary?"

The Presidents of the United States and Haiti, after direct conversations carried on in French in the White House, have apparently answered in the negative, and the press announces that Haiti is to control henceforth its own finances. It had been agreed, in August of last year, that the marines were to be removed in October of this year. If the arrangements for the removal of the American supervision of the customs and finances of Haiti are carried out, another important milestone in inter-American relations will have been passed.

The relations between the United States and Haiti, in the wide scheme of American affairs, are apparently unimportant. But, like those with Cuba, these relations are the outward symbols of the spirit and will of the United States; they are the weather vane which point the direction of America's real feeling with respect to her neighbors. One by one under the present Administration, continuing a trend begun in previous regimes, the evidences and appearances of imperialism in the Caribbean are being liquidated.

Freeing Haiti from economic bondage is, therefore, much more than an act of justice. The people of Haiti have proved their capacity to conquer depression by balancing their budgets and by building up surpluses in their treasury. They have received no more than they deserved. But the manner and the spirit in which the American Administration has gone about severing irksome curbs upon Haiti add another proof of its sincere desire to eliminate suspicion in the Latin-American world.

A Stamp For Serra

San Francisco Chronicle

The Santa Barbara News makes an editorial suggestion worthy of being promoted. It is that in this Junipero Serra Year, the one hundred and fiftieth since the death of the great California pioneer and missionary, the Postoffice would do well to issue a special commemorative stamp.

There is no reason to be backward about such a request to the Government. It has issued and is issuing many special stamps in commemoration of important events not only in the life of the Nation, but of those in the histories of individual States. In the case of California the history of this State begins with the coming of Fra Junipero Serra. More than that, the history of the whole Pacific Coast begins with him from the point of view that he first brought civilization to this shore of the United States.

As the founder of California and of civilization on this Coast, as a personality and character so remarkable as to win the praises of all the historians, even of those not over friendly to his religion—Hittell compared him to St. Francis and said he ought to be canonized—Junipero Serra is eminently worthy of this mark of commemoration.

More Truth Than Poetry

A MATTER OF PREFERENCE

It may be sport to walk beside
The green and turbid Nile
And with a spear pluck from the tide
A wriggling crocodile.
It may be fun to trek across
The wilds of Timbuktu
And catch a buck rhinoceros
Before he catches you.
But it is pleasant to stray
Beneath the lights of old Broadway.

Some sportsmen love to go in quest
Of tigers in their lairs
While others take deep interest
In chasing grizzly bears.
But I'd feel shame, to say the least,
To scramble up a tree
And shoot at some poor frightened beast
Which had not troubled me.
A forest in the gathering gloam
Is certainly no place like home.

I'd love to play a hero's part
And tweak a lion's mane,
But doctors tell me that my heart
Would hardly stand the strain,
So in the spring I stroll about
Beside a shady brook
And watch some avid leaping trout
Come nosing at my hook.
A life that's free from qualms, I find,
Is far more soothing to the mind.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

APRIL 27, 1920

Lieutenant Lawrence Kelly of the U. S. Navy, with Mrs. Kelly and their small daughter were guests of Mrs. May Jorgenson when they came to Santa Ana.

Adam Zaiser of the First National bank, proposed a concerted effort on the part of Santa Ana home owners, to plant many more flowers in the yards and parkings in order that the city might live up to the appellation of "The Flowery City" given it by many tourists from the east.

Santa Ana Rotarians and their wives motored to Santa Ana canyon where they were served luncheon at the foot of Sulphur Slide, and where the club charter was officially presented by the retiring district governor, Alex Sheriffs of San Jose.

Rotarians Charles D. Brown, Charles L. Davis and Fred Ross formed the committee in charge of the gala event, which continued with a motorcade to Camp Cajon, joined in San Bernardino by the Rotarians of that city with their wives.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

RED FLAGS FOR ROOSEVELT

As Mr. Roosevelt comes back from a fleeting rest and settles down to the later developmental phase of the New Deal, there are several red flags of warning along the way.

Let me try to describe these warning signals by framing a few questions.

Can a national program involving even as much social control as the New Deal involves by implication be effectively put through by a Democracy? Heretofore in history anything like extensive social control has meant a dictatorship or an oligarchy.

How long may we expect the emergency impulses which gave such unprecedented power to the national leadership in March, 1933, to last? If the fall elections should trim the controlling majorities down to the danger point? If natural forces should bring enough recovery to wipe out the emergency mood that made strong leadership possible? What then? How far can we go on the road to a stiffer social control of economic enterprise?

How far past the personal leadership of Mr. Roosevelt will the New Deal be able to go unless it becomes a coherent and unified national plan? It is not now. The New Deal today is not a plan. It is a collection of plans. Some of them run counter to the others.

The Roosevelt leadership has been avowedly an improvising leadership, frankly opportunistic, given to cutting and trying. I think this is all to the good, but it leaves the situation in the hands of one man. There is in it nothing comparable to the unified philosophy of a Lenin which raised up an army of followers imbued with a politico-economic gospel.

What will happen to the drive of the New Deal if and when the flood of federal money that has subsidized millions into loyalty begins to ebb? What will happen then to the sweeping popularity of the national leadership?

The Roosevelt administration to date has been able dramatically to pull one rabbit after another out of the hat. The masses, always eager for the thrill of action, have thrown their caps in the air and shouted themselves hoarse. What will happen to the mass mood when the New Deal has to drop the high drama of brilliant initiative for the duller routine of development and administration?

How will the Roosevelt leadership be able to stop the tidal sweep of subsidies without political suicide?

Here are a few of the stubborn questions that confront Mr. Roosevelt as he comes, tanned, to his tasks again.

DOLES

"Can I have a quarter, mother?"
"What do you want it for?"
"I want to buy a stick for my new airplane."

"No, I don't want you to spend any more money on that thing. It's plain foolishness. A big boy like you ought to be doing something useful."

The boy went out hurt and angry. He made up his mind that he would find a way to get that stick. "He wouldn't ask his mother for another cent as long as he lived. He was just sick and tired of the whole thing. Just as soon as he got the chance he'd show some of these people."

A sixteen year old boy ought to have a fixed allowance. It has to be in proportion to the family income and related to the budget. By the time he has reached adolescence a boy can understand a budget and he can understand too, the necessities of home and family in relation to it. Some part of the budget is for the boy. Let him handle it for himself.

You are immediately alarmed lest he make mistakes in using it and there is no room for mistakes. Just the same he must handle the money, or the best part of it, that is assigned him. This is the time that he learns about buying and selling and saving and investing and the whole department of personal finance. When he is a wage earner it is too late. His earnings will be used for experimental purposes and the mistakes will be costly in accordance.

You are not going to agree with the boy in his manner of using his money. His tastes are different. His judgment is poor. His wishes and will are undisciplined. Of course. How is he to master the arts of good taste, how arrive at sound judgments, how discipline his wayward wishes and his groping will, save by personal experiences? He must try and fail and try again.

"But I explained and I told him and I warned him, and he went right out and spent fifty cents, half his week's allowance, for a pair of those idiotic spectacles that they wear on cycle trips. And he has no motor cycle. He's just a plain idiot where money is concerned so I never give him any unless I know just what he is going to do with it."

And what good will that do? You might better allow him to make his mistakes while there is time for him to profit by them. Some money is set aside for him. Give him a little for his personal use. Give him an accounting scheme at the same time and go over it with him daily in the beginning, weekly, and then monthly, as he progresses in understanding. Don't scold about his mistakes. Advise and direct and as he shows intelligence in the matter, increase his responsibilities. Begin with the little ones and keep at it until by the time they are adolescent and their expense account is increased, you can depend upon them for thrift and wisdom.

If you have delayed this until the boy is almost full grown, begin now and gradually work him up to the self sustaining, self directing stage. Doles are bad.
